Stieska GOP Nominee, Judge Laird Decides

ROSTRAVER STORM DAMAGE HIGH

Donora Zinc Works to Shut Down November 1

Election Board Reversed

Judge Richard D. Laird of Westmoreland County common pleas court decreed yesterday that John R. Stieska is the Republican nominee for mayor of Monessen.

Judge Laird sustained Stieska's appeal from a decision by the County Election Board, consisting of the three county commissioners, that Mayor Hugo J. Parente had won the Republican as well as the Democratic nomination.

Parente easily defeated Stieska for the Democratic nomination, and they staged a contest for sticker and write-in votes on the Republican ticket since no Republicans had filed for any local offices in Monessen.

Judge Laird, ruling that votes cast for the candidates under various versions of their names could be cumulated, declared that Stieska had received 170 valid Republican votes and Parente, 149.

Plans to Campaign

The County Election Board had ruled that votes could be counted only when the full names, properly spelled, were used. On that basis they gave the Republican nomination to Parente, 70 to 58.

Informed of Judge Laird's decision, Stieska told The Daily Independent that he would accept the Republican nomination and make an aggressive campaign. He indicated he may have a statement to make later.

Mayor Parente was out of the city on a fishing trip and was not expected back until later in the week.

There is a possibility that the Mayor may appeal Judge Laird's decision to a higher court.

City Solicitor David H. Weiss, who represented Parente in the proceedings before Judge Laird, was in Greensburg this morning and could not be reached for comment.

Judge Laird's ruling was expected to affect the outcome of other write-in contests for other Republican nominations in Monessen. Presumably the County Election Board will cumulate the votes cast for these offices, too.

Opinion Lengthy

There was no official word to that effect from the commissioners' office, however.

The Monessen case may have an influence on similar mix-ups in other parts of the state. Although lower courts have ruled in similar situations, no appellate court decisions are on record concerning the cumulation of write-in votes where voting machines are used.

By appealing Judge Laird's decision, Parente possibly could secure a Supreme Court ruling on the disputed point.

Judge Laird's opinion was lengthy. It said merely that "after hearing, after argument and after due and careful consideration, it

Charleroi Man Faces Charge

Harold E. Wallace, of Charleroi, waived extradition before Washington County Judge George T. Cummins yesterday and was handed over to Plattsburgh, N. Y. authorities to face a larceny charge.

Wallace was arrested by state police on Friday on information supplied by Plattsburgh City Police Lt. Edward Kunkle.

According to Kunkle the larceny charge grew out of resale of furniture which Wallace allegedly owed for. The amount involved was just over $900, Kunkle said.

Civil Rights Battle May Go Eight Weeks

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland told President Eisenhower today that the civil rights battle in the Senate could take "four, six or eight weeks" and possibly longer.

The California senator said Eisenhower was "fully aware" of the possibility that by giving priority to the filibuster-threatened civil rights debate the Senate may be prevented from acting this session on several of the President's legislative proposals.

Knowland and other Republican congressional leaders who met at the White House with Eisenhower this morning declined to say whether the President approved of the party's parliamentary maneuvers which sidetracked other bills to turn the floor over to the civil rights debate.

Knowland said he suggested, in a "humorous vein" that while the Senate is embroiled in the debate the President and the House of Representatives could take off on vacations.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. added that he hoped the Senate would be "generous enough" to allow House members a vacation during the debate and "if that is the case, there is no reason why the President could not take one too."

Senate Democratic foes of the administration's civil rights bill raised hopes of a compromise, saying they would "accept" a proposed amendment to assure jury trials in most rights cases but would continue to fight the bill.

450 Men Affected By Move

The smelting of zinc at the American Steel and Wire Company's plant in Donora will be discontinued around November 1, it was announced today.

However, a sulfuric acid plant at the Zinc Works will remain in operation.

The announcement was made by L. F. McGlincy, district manager of operations for this division of the U. S. Steel Corp.

McGlincy emphasized that the closing of the zinc plant will have no effect on the operations of the Donora Steel and Wire Works.

Built in 1915, the Donora Zinc Works has been the object of several law suits by residents of the area who claimed that fumes damaged their property. . .

One organization — the Society for Better Living, Inc. — accused the Zinc Works of supplying the lethal elements during the 1948 smog disaster.

450 Out of Jobs

At the height of the smog, officials of the American Steel and Wire Co. voluntarily suspended operations. Since then the firm has maintained a weather station to guard against possible future disasters.

Approximately 550 men are now employed at the Zinc Works. About 100 of these will remain to operate the sulfuric acid plant.

"Our principal concern is for the welfare of the 450 men who will be affected when zinc smelting operations are discontinued and the impact this will have on the community," said McGlincy.

"For that reason, we have studied the situation very thoroughly before arriving at our decision," McGlincy added.

According to McGlincy, every effort will be made to place the Zinc Works employes in other plants of the United States Steel Corp.

Several Factors

Several factors contributed to the determination to discontinue the zinc smelting operations.

The "horizontal retort" type furnaces in operation at the plant were the most modern and efficient installation in existence when first erected just prior to World War I. However, technological developments over the years have rendered the plant non-competitive. Acute shortages of the proper type ores also contributed to the decision, according to McGlincy.

"During World War II and the period immediately following, the emphasis was on production of zinc to fulfill the requirements of the U. S. Steel Corporation," he stated.

"Cost was of secondary import-

SURVEY STORM DAMAGE — Mr. and Mrs. John Caldwell and their four year old daughter Debra examine the remains of their Rostraver Twp. home after a twister leveled the structure last midnight.

Twister In Turkey Hollow

A fierce electrical storm hit the district last midnight, spawning a twister in Rostraver Twp.

While most of the area escaped serious damage, violent winds cut a path of destruction through the township. However no injuries were reported.

The American Steel and Wire Co. weather station atop Turkey Hollow Road recorded a wind gust of 100 miles an hour. That's as high as the testing equipment goes.

A spokesman at the Donora Zinc Works weather bureau said a small twister probably developed in the area since the damage followed a definite path.

At least one house and several garages were smashed in the sparsely-populated section hit by the twister. Many trees were uprooted and utility lines were knocked down.

State Police said traffic on Turkey Hollow was halted this morning while workmen cleared away debris.

Started in Hollow

The twister apparently originated in the Hollow, where it carried away a section of roof from the Weiss Packing Company.

From there the heavy winds whipped through the Hollow, smashing a concrete block garage on the Ralph Sickels property. A section of the garage roof was carried almost 100 yards away, but a car inside of the building was not damaged.

Sickels said windows in his nearby home were blown out and part of the garage roof hurled against the side of the frame building. However, he and his family escaped uninjured.

The twister hit hardest in the area near the William Smith farm off of Route 71.

A partially completed house owned by John Caldwell, of Donora, was smashed. The roof was ripped into bits and strewn over a 100 foot area.

Garage Crushed

Caldwell, unemployed for several months, was building the house, himself, along with the help of friends and neighbors.

A tree crushed through a nearby garage owned by Paul Piersol, smashing the front end of a new auto inside.

Another garage, owned by Cliff Patterson, was lifted from its foundation.

Crops in the area were badly damaged.

The storm hit the district about 12:30 p. m., dropping 2:24 inches of rain in a two hour period.

25 District Scouts Leave for Jamboree

Twenty-five Boy Scouts from the Arrowhead District left today via chartered bus for the fourth National Jamboree at historic Valley Forge.

The local Jamboree party boarded its bus at 9 a. m. at New Stanton. It was scheduled to arrive at the camp site sometime this afternoon.

In all, 124 Boy Scouts and leaders will represent the Westmoreland-Fayette Council at Valley Forge.

Scouts from all over the nation — about 50,000 — will pitch camp at the historic 2,033 acre site near Philadelphia.

The Jamboree will run through July 19, with spectacular evening programs scheduled on July 12 and July 18 in a natural amphitheatre which will seat 50,000 campers.

The Arrowhead party includes these boys:

William Dawson, Charles Melenyzer, David Palmer, David Rhome, Thomas Strauss, Terry Throop and Allen Throop, Troop 2, Monessen;

Martin Dudas, Rathael Fedorchak, Carl Jurkiewicz, Eugene Ninchak, Troop 9, Monessen;

Jerome Dropp, Troop 10, Monessen;

Eric Crabtree, Brownsville.

William Vizza, Donald Kimball, John Biggins, Jr., Denny Dayner, Byron Kibler, Greg Lacy, Troop 1, Belle Vernon;

Paul Jesick, Charles Keznor, Thomas Luzanski, Joseph Sedlak, Troop 1, Fairhope;

Richard Mains, Post 1, West Newton.

Truck-tractor Out of Control

A truck-tractor went out of control on Route 711 near Allen's Crossroads about 6:15 p. m. yesterday and rammed into a utility pole, state police reported today.

Police said the truck, driven by Thomas Lofink, Jr., of R. D. 1, Fayette City, went out of control when it skidded on the rain-drenched highway. It went off the road, struck the pole and stopped just short of a sign at the entrance to a drive-in theatre.

The driver was not injured, police reported.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $50.

Burglary Attempt At Dairy Bar

Richard Saflin, proprietor of Tracy's Dairy Bar at 1323 Summit Ave., Monessen, reported to police yesterday afternoon that a burglary attempt was made at the store sometime early yesterday morning.

He said an attempt to pry open a rear door and window with a pinch bar was unsuccessful.

Route 837 Will Be Reopened Soon

A State Highway Department spokesman predicted today that Route 837 between Charleroi and Donora will be reopened to traffic in about ten days.

The busy highway was closed several weeks ago while the Marsolino Construction Co. completed a landfill at the old Pittsburgh Railways trolley trestle in Eldora.

About 75 per cent of the fill has been completed.

The highway is also being widened along the Fisher Heights-Eldora stretch.

Boy Struck by Car Driven by Mother

A four-year-old Belle Vernon R. D. 3 boy was reported in satisfactory condition today at Brownsville Hospital after being accidentally struck by an auto driven by his mother.

Mrs. Jack Belczyk told authorities she was operating a car near her home last Saturday when the youngster rode his tricycle into her path.

The boy, Donald Belczyk, suffered head and chest injuries.

Hungarian Ladies Aux. meet at at Check's 7 p. m. Wednesday to pay respects to Mrs. Anna Lastoka, mother of member, Mary Lastoka.

Another Test Alert Tonight

A second "dry run" alert will be conducted by the Monessen Civil Defense tonight. The first was held last night.

At 7:15 tonight, a long steady "alert" signal will be sounded on sirens, horns and whistles. It will last from three to five minutes.

The "all-clear" will be sounded at 7:30 p. m. This signal will last about three minutes.

The public will not be required to take cover tonight. Friday night, however, residents will be expected to take cover during a statewide alert.

The tests are being held to acquaint residents with the signals.

Minor Accident

A minor accident occurred in a parking lot at the Park Plan last night about 9:45 and involved cars operated by Leroy Horan, of 928 Donner Ave., and Ortenzio Maione, of 1126 George St., both of Monessen.

Firemen meet at Third St. Fire Station 7:30 this evening to go to pay respects to Mrs. Anna Lastoka, mother of brother fireman, Joseph Lastoka.

Democrats to Interview Judgeship Candidates

The Westmoreland County Democratic Policy Committee will meet Monday in Greensburg to "interview" six candidates aspiring for the nomination for common pleas court in the Nov. 5 general election.

County Chairman Jay Kromer pointed out, however, that the policy committee will not have the final decision in selecting the party's choice for the vacancy resulting from the death of Judge George H. McWherter last April 17.

He said Monday's meeting is being held merely to acquaint members of the policy committee with the candidates and that the final choice will be made by the party's 126-man executive committee. He said he intends scheduling an executive committee meeting sometime after July 15.

The policy committee is made up of office holders, such as the several legislatures in the county and Congressman Augustine B. Kelley and State Sen. John H. Dent.

He emphasized that this meeting "won't mean a thing as far as selecting a candidate is concerned. Our executive committee will do that."

Two other common pleas seats are up for vote in the general election. Judge Edward G. Bauer, seeking a second 10-year term, and District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco won Democratic nominations in the May primaries.

Seeking places on the Democratic ballot for the third seat are David H. Weiss, of Monessen, and John Best, of Greensburg, both Sculco's assistants; James L. McWherter, nephew of the late judge; Vincent Williams, of Greensburg; Paul Mahady, of Latrobe, and former assistant D. A. Joseph M. Loughran.

Rumors circulating throughout the county have McWherter as the most likely choice. However, Monessen Democrats, particularly Mayor Hugo J. Parente, are pushing for Weiss.

It is unlikely that Loughran will

Chief of Detectives A. B. (Buddy) Turner, of Pricedale, reputed boss of the Democratic machine, has not indicated his choice, stating the "race is still wide open."

The Republicans already have added Willis E. Topper to their slate for court. Avra N. Pershing, Jr., and Robert H. Rial, both of Greensburg, were nominated on the GOP ticket.

CD Traffic Jam In East Liberty

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A zealous Civil Defense aide caused a traffic jam in the city's East Liberty business district Monday during an air raid warning test.

Welfare Fund Laws Hit by John L. Lewis

WASHINGTON (UP) — United Mineworkers President John L. Lewis warned Congress today that federal regulation of workers' welfare funds may be a step toward creating "a police state in truth and in fact."

"In the minds of the people I represent, there is no necessity for federal legislation of these welfare funds at any time," he said. "There is a necessity for increased prosecution of those who have been guilty of wrongdoing in connection with them."

But, Lewis said, "We have laws for that; we have appropriations to carry out those laws."

His statement was prepared for the House Labor Committee which is investigating present handling of the nearly 40 billion dollars invested by workers and their employers in welfare funds. In opposing any federal controls, Lewis split with other labor leaders who favor such regulation.

Employers have generally opposed any such regulation by the federal government.

Lewis conceded that "dishonest men have committed dishonest deeds as affecting certain of the welfare funds." But he said it would be wrong to clamp controls on the funds "more or less in reprisal."

He said it is important that labor unions themselves see that upright officials are elected to take care of welfare funds. He said the union members must "reject the theory that voluntary associations should become the province of the state because the members of the voluntary associations seem at times incapable of any form of self-government."

Lewis said such a theory "strikes at the very heart of the principles of this republic."

"I do not believe that the republic, through its central powers, can regulate these voluntary associations, either in whole or in part, without of necessity expanding its powers as a central government to the point where it will become a police state, in truth and in fact," the mineworkers president said.

The bushy-browed Lewis said proposals to control union welfare funds would put an undue burden on the funds, vastly increase the cost of their administration, deprive potential beneficiaries of full participation in the funds and increase the cost of government by creating new bureaus of administration.

Any new regulatory law, he said, inevitably leads to "further encroachment of the state upon the voluntary forms of organization."

Lewis said it is far better to let the free enterprise system prevail in labor in welfare funds and in collective bargaining than to have central government regulation.

"For if we do," he said, "the form and concept of our government changes, and tomorrow is another day fraught with hazard and peril for the American flag and its free institutions."

Lewis said Congress ought to give "free enterprise in welfare funds" a chance to continue.

"You cannot achieve virtue merely by the enactment of statute because enactment of a statute does not change he character of men," he said.

were recorded by the Zinc Works weather equipment for almost a minute.

The West Penn Power Co. reis ordered and adjudged and decreed that the appeal be and the same is hereby sustained; that the write-in ballots be and the same hereby are accumulated and as follows: 170 votes for John R. Stieska; 149 votes for Hugo J. Parente."

Meets With Leaders

The County Election Board was "directed to certify and return the name of John R. Stieska as Republican nominee for the office of mayor of the City of Monessen . . . and to place the name of John R. Stieska on the record as having been nominated on the Republican ticket as candidate for mayor . . . at the coming election to be held . . . Tuesday, Nov. 5."

Stieska is understood to have been conferring with Republican county leaders and to have made tentative campaign plans.

The county leaders have been anxious to present a ticket in Monessen, which is a Democratic stronghold. Apparently such a ticket will have to consist mainly of Democrats who were defeated in their own primary.

Judge Laird also certified the nomination of James A. Richards as a Republican councilmanic nominee in Arnold.

Laird's lengthy ruling quoted from Johnston's Election Guide: "When the voters' intention is found, it should not be defeated by the fact that the name of the candidae is misspelled, the wrog initials employed or some other or slightly different name, or like or similar pronunciation, has been written instead of that of the candidate actually intended for."

Laird said he was satisfied that in each case the different names appearing on the voting machine write-ins "identify one and the same individual" and thus should be combined.

Soviet Bosses Cross Border Of Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UP) —Soviet Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin crossed the border into Czechoslovakia today to give a first hand report on the Kremlin purge to Czech Communist leaders.

Reports from the Czech border station of Cerna-on-Tisa said the train passed through from the Ukraine at 3:30 a.m. e.d.t. With Khrushchev and Bulganin were Soviet security chief Gen. Ivan Serov and a delegation of top leaders.

The train was due in Prague Wednesday morning when the Soviet leaders are expected to give their account of the anti-Molotov purge. Other East European Communists also may be called in for first hand briefings.

Official reports in Prague Monday night said Czech President Antonin Zapotocky led the welcoming group, but Czech dispatches from the border today made no mention of him.

ported wide-spread damage. The lines at Rankins Crossroads — in the path of the twister — were cut down and service was knocked out for customers in the area for almost two hours.

Power Is Off

The Belle Vernon sub-station was hit by lightning, cutting off power to Belle Vernon, Lynnwood and sections of Monessen for about an hour.

A main power line was cut by lightning on the Monongahela-East Monongahela bridge and thrown into the river. That halted service in Pangborn Hollow for almost three hours.

A West Penn spokesman said lightning hit lines throughout the district, but that breaker circuits maintained electrical power in most sections.

Oddly enough, Bell Telephone Co. reported no serious damage and no interruption in phone service.

According to the weather bureau, generally cloudy skies and more thundershowers are on tap for today.

Temperatures are expected to hit the middle 80's. Tonight is supposed to be fair and cool with low temperatures in the 50's. The forecast for tomorrow is sunny and not so humid.

ance. However, in recent years, serious ore shortages have developed and our production costs for Donora zinc have continued to rise while the price of the metal on the open market has reflected its ready availability.

"At the present time our plans call for dismantling of certain Originally constructed primarilt plant," McGlincy added.

"Some of the buildings are expected to be used to supplement our other operations in Donora. The property on which the zinc plant is located will be retained by American Steel and Wire to provide for possible future expansion of the Steel and Wire Works," he concluded.

Originally constructed primarily for the production of zinc and sulfuric acid, the plant ultimately was expanded to include other auxiliary facilities to bring annual capacity up to 70,000 net tons of slab zinc and 160,000 net tons of sulfuric acid, in addition to smaller amounts of cadmium, germanium and other by-products.

France Gives Asylum To American, Wife

PARIS (UP) — George Zlatovski, 47, former U.S. Army intelligence officer, said today the French government had granted him and his wife political asylum from American charges they had spied for Russia.

But a spokesman for the French Foreign Ministry said, "I know nothing about that."

Zlatovski and his wife, Jane Foster Zlatovski, 45, were indicted Monday in New York by a federal grand jury on espionage charges. They would have to be extradited to the United States for trial.

Zlatovski said he could make no statement about the espionage charges against him because he and his wife had been given political asylum in France and he did not want to say anything that would "embarrass" the French government.

Asked if he had any statement to make about the charges he replied, "No, I have absolutely no statement to make. You have read the papers and know as much as I do."

He said he had heard nothing from either the American or French governments.

The couple live in a small apartment on the Left Bank of Paris.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the request for extradition would have to be submitted through diplomatic channels — by the State Department to the French Foreign Ministry.

The request would be relayed to the Ministry of Justice which in turn would give it for final action to a special court set up to study the indictment.

If the United States takes legal action to have the two Americans returned, they would have to be arrested by French police and held in prison not longer than 21 days while the court decides on the extradition question.

If the answer is "yes," the two would be sent to America for trial.

The Zlatovskis were indicted by the same grand jury which indicted Jack and Myra Soble and Jacob Albam last January in New York for conspiring to obtain U.S. defense data for Russia.

The Sobles and Albam pleaded guilty and now are awaiting sentence.

The 38-count espionage indictment charged that since 1940 the Zlatovskis had conspired with Soviet agents in New York, Washington, Paris and in Austria and Switzerland to obtain defense information for the Soviet Union.

State Bonus Machinery Bill Signed by Leader

Voters to Act Now on Money For Korean Vets

HARRISBURG (UP)—Legislation to set up the machinery for payment of the proposed state bonus to Korean War veterans has been signed by Gov. George M. Leader.

The measure is an enabling act to pay an estimated $150,000,000 bonus up for voter approval at the November election on a general referendum. It specifies an eligible veteran could receive a maximum $500 bonus.

Servicemen who received the "Korean Service Medal" would be paid $15 for each month of overseas service between June 27, 1950 and July 27, 1953. All other veterans would receive $10 per month regardless of where they served during the period.

The measure appropriated $500,000 to provide for administration involved in paying some 335,000 eligible veterans. It set a Dec. 31, 1963 cutoff date for submission of applications for the bonus.

Other bills signed by Gov. Leader late Monday included measures which would:

—Extend the deadline for payment of the World War —— bonus to Dec. 31, 1958. The previous deadline expired Dec. 31 last year.

—Increase the fine for conviction of selling automobiles or trailers on Sunday from $4 to $100. The measure also specified a $200 fine or 30 days imprisonment for second offenders.

—Transfer the 28th Division Shrine at Boalsburg, Centre County, from the state Military Affairs Department to the Historical and Museum Commission. Some $25,000 also was appropriated for development and maintenance of the 75-acre property.

—Allow military leaves of absence for state or local government employes who are drafted into the armed services. The bill carries reemployment protection and safeguards seniority and retirement rights.

—Permit any bedridden or hospitalized veteran to cast an absentee ballot. Existing legislation specified the veterans' illness or disability must be service connected.

—Extend admission rights at the Soldiers and Sailors Home at Erie to include veterans of the Korean War.

—Reduce the penalty for conviction of mperating a business without a sales tax license from the present 1,000 to 100-$300. The jail term in lieu of the fine was cut from one year to five-to-30 days.

—Extend the period for filing quarterly sales tax returns for businesses collecting less than $600 to 45 days from the end of the quarter instead of the present 15 days.

Jury in Segregation Trial Being Selected

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Attorneys were expected to complete a jury today to try John Kasper and 15 other segregationists in a proceeding that could set a pattern for federal segregation cases.

The opening day of the trial Monday was painfully slow with only 11 prospective jurors from a panel of 66 questioned and only four seated.

The prospective jurors faced three lines of questioning, from the government and the defense as well as a second line of defense—Kasper's lawyer, Benjamin Simmons.

While attorneys for the 15 Tennesseans facing trial with Kasper have shunned any direct connection with the Yankee segregationist they were not hesitant to use his name to avoid seating a Negro prospective juror.

All 16 defendants are being tried jointly for criminal contempt of U.S. District Judge Robert Love Taylor's injunction not to interfere with integration of the Clinton, Tenn., high school.

Conspiracy with Kasper must be proved in the case of any of the other defendants because he was the only individual personally served with the order.

Knowledge of the order, an understanding of it and participation in overt acts also must be proved according to Judge Taylor's own repeated interpretation.

At one point in Monday's proceedings, a Negro prospective juror was called.

Judge Taylor held that the Negro, Albert Cloud, was a competent juror and prosecutor John C. Crawford Jr. accepted him for the government.

Then Robert L. Dobbs, chief of the dozen "anti-Kasper" defense lawyers, got Cloud to admit he felt "unkindly" toward Kasper for "going down there and stirring things up" at Clinton after the court had ruled Clinton High must be integrated.

The Negro admitted he could not put the other "defendants in a sack and shake them up" with Kasper and come out with the same feeling for all.

"All right," said Judge Taylor, "I'll excuse you."

Local Barber Honor Guest On Retirement

Mike Lyasko, who recently retired after operating a barber shop here since 1925, was honored at a banquet Sunday evening at the Italian Hall by the Barbers Professional Trade of Monessen.

Local barbers and their wives comprised the guest list. Albert Salvino, local president, served as toastmaster. Mayor Hugo Parente spoke briefly and recalled his acquaintance with the honored guest, who came here from McKeesport to go into business.

He opened a barber shop on Schoonmaker Ave. and operated it continually until his retirement.

Invocation and benediction were by Faleo Colonna. The committee on arrangements included James P. Altomari, chairman, Joseph Panepinto, Fred Alessio and Mike Bucar.

Berserk Murder Spree Trial Set for July 15

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP) — The murder trial of Thomas Cronk, 31, South Wheeling, charged with the slaying of his father-in-law and sister-in-law last June 15 in a berserk shooting spree, has been set for July 15.

Judge David A. McKee of Ohio County's Intermediate Court, set the date Monday after overruling a defense motion for continuance in order to give Cronk's attorneys additional time to prepare his defense.

The former truck driver was accused of murdering James Mitcham, 45, and Mitcham's daughter, Donna, 9, at his apartment. His 20-year-old wife told police Cronk thought her father was coming to take their two children away from him.

Alex Taylorchyk, 35, of Barton, Ohio, a handyman on the Mitcham farm, was wounded in the shooting.

Cronk was indicted for murder during a special session of the grand jury called within a week of the incident. He also faces a felonious assault charge resulting from Taylorchyk's wounding.

RESCUE AT SEA — Mr. and Mrs. Albert Safstrom hang to the hull of their capsized twinhulled Catamaran sail boat in Catalina Channel off the coast of California. They and two others spent six hours in the water before being picked up by a British freighter. The two others had put out on a small coat to try to get help, and were subsequently rescued by the British ship.

West Delaying Discussion of Soviet Rejection

LONDON (UP)—Western delegates to the London disarmament conference today postponed an emergency session called to discuss the exact meaning of Russia's rejection of a nuclear test ban.

The session was postponed until Wednesday because French delegate Jules Moch flew home to Paris to consult with his government on the implications of the "no" to the Western-proposed nuclear test ban voiced Monday by Soviet chief delegate Valerian Zorin.

While Moch was putting the Soviet rejection to the Paris government for study, U.S. chief delegate Harold E. Stassen referred the Russian stand to Washington.

It also was reported Stassen might approach Zorin privately to find out if his rejection was a final answer to the Western compromise offer on nuclear tests—or merely a tactical maneuver.

Horses Barred From Racing at Wheeling Track

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP) — Horses owned by the Royal Mani Stable, once operated by Mrs. William G. Lias, will not be allowed to race at the track when it opens a summer meeting Wednesday.

John R. Monoghan, secretary of the Hazel Park Racing Assn. and member of the board at Wheeling Downs Racing, said the track officials did not intend to permit any horses from the stable run during the meet until "it has been proven to its satisfaction and to the satisfaction of the West Virginia Racing Commission" there is a new owner of the stable.

Announcement of the stable sale was made recently, but the name of the new owner was not disclosed.

The track was sold last month to Hazel Park under a government order to satisfy part of a $3,280,000 income tax and penalty bill against Lias.

Water no Chaser

Expert Disarms Bomb in Germany

KASSEL, Germany (UP) — A steel-nerved demolition expert disarmed a 1,000-pound World War II bomb at dawn today and the city of Kassel heaved a collective sigh of relief.

The explosive, a dirt-encrusted memento of some American air raid, was uncovered during excavation work near the main railway station Monday. Workmen tried to move the bomb but officials feared the jolting might set off the acid-type fuse.

Manu-Mine Head Takes Witness Stand to Defend Turnpike Contract

HARRISBURG (UP) — Charles W. Stickler Jr., head of the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading, was scheduled to take the witness stand today to defend his firm's work for the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission under a 1955 contract which the state charges was obtained by fraud.

Called to the stand shortly before court adjourned Monday, Stickler told the jury of his experience in mining engineering since his graduation from Pennsylvania State College 20 years ago, and of the facts surrounding the formation of his firm on $5,400 capital in 1951.

Stickler said that a Manu-Mine (adapted from the words "amnufacturing" and "mining") Products Co., set up to manufacture mining equipment "to stop movement of mines," was the forerunner of the present company.

In forming the new firm, Stickler said, he gathered as incorporators "men who could push ahead," explaining that "Today in business, you've got to push."

Among those who founded the firm were Richard H. Evans, the late son of former commission chairman Thomas J. Evans, who is one of the defendants; Mark C. McQuillan, a prominent Reading lawyer; Richard A. Zeimer, head of a Reading chemical firm; and A. W. Gauger, Penn State University dean of men.

Previous testimony showed that the small-scale business, which originally started operations in a two-car garage outside Reading and showed a $279 loss in its first year, rose to a multi-million dollar corporation in four years—all for the Turnpike Commission, for the Turnpike commission, then headed by Evans, Stickler's uncle.

By 1953, however, only Stickler and Richard Evans remained of the six original stockholders, with Stickler holding 22 of the 26 shares outstanding.

The Commonwealth charges the commission was defrauded of "millions of dollars" through "made work"—ostensibly aimed at pumping silt into abandoned coal mine voids beneath the turnpike right-of-way to support the roadway against possible subsidence.

Manu-Mine drilled approximately 600,000 feet of holes into the mines, to receive the silt, at a charge of $12.50 per foot. The commission was charged almost eight million dollars on the project and paid $6,700,000 before the contract was terminated in Feb. 1956, after state Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler received an anonymous letter reportedly indicating fraud was involved in the project.

Also being tried for conspiracy and misconduct in office are Thomas Evans and suspended commissioner James F. Torrance. The other defendants are:

Former turnpike officers Paul J. McNeill, finance director; John D. Paul, assistant chief engineer, and Theodore S. Paul (no relation), chief legal counsel; and E. J. Donnelly and G. J. Hudert, of the J. E. Greiner Co., Baltimore, former consulting engineers to the commission.

The nine are the first of 46 persons indicted as a result of a special grand jury investigation of turnpike operations. The remainder of the indictments are scheduled to be tried in September.

The Valley and Its No. 1 Problem

THE IDEA of cleaning up the atmosphere over this section of the Monongahela Valley is one with which the local governing bodies so far seem unable or unwilling to cope. Although polluted air obviously is one of the Valley's greatest drawbacks as a place to live and work, there is a strange official reluctance even to make a start at attacking the problem.

There seems to be an unexpressed fear among city and borough councilmen, a feeling that even discussion of air pollution might be interpreted as a sign of unfriendliness toward those industries which help to contaminate the air.

Yet anyone who is thinking seriously about the Valley's future knows in his heart that, unless something is done to clean up its air, the Valley may not have much future. It may have steel furnaces and whatever fluctuating prosperity can be built around them. But its chances of diversifying employment opportunities and enhancing its commercial and residential development will be decidedly limited for the simple reason that nobody is going to live in a dirty atmosphere who doesn't have to.

This is a hard truth for us to admit, even to ourselves, and it is a temptation not to talk about it, even among ourselves. But it is the truth nevertheless, and to face it squarely may be the beginning of wisdom for the responsible public officials of all the Valley's communities.

* * *

THE INDEPENDENT, in asking these officials to consider the problem, is not unmindful of the difficulties, technical and other. We fully realize that some of the steel-making processes, for instance, are not yet susceptible to practical air pollution control measures. And any workable scheme for improving the atmosphere would have to make allowance for such realities.

Even the conversion of domestic heating facilities to smokeless operation would have to be a gradual process to avoid hardship.

But while being sensible and practical in our approach to the problem is one thing, ignoring it completely, as if it didn't exist, is quite another.

Our neglect of this vital matter is not in keeping with the traditional American community spirit. It is quite unlike Americans, when something is wrong that affects the general welfare, not to be trying to do something about it.

Something can be done about air pollution—scores of cities are demonstrating that every day. And as research discloses new and better control methods, these efforts are bringing better and better results.

Our hope is that the Monongahela Valley decides before too much longer that it, too, will do something. Once it does, the fear that has frozen official action will disappear before the promise of a better, brighter community life for us all.

Presidents' Wives

THE DEATH OF Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, the widow of the former President, recalls the tranquil period between the two great wars when that gracious lady presided over the White House. Mrs. Coolidge was the epitome of the First Lady, a woman of great charm and competence who gave herself completely to the business of helping her husband.

The United States has been extremely fortunate, at least in modern times, in the women who have been married to its Presidents. To go back in reverse chronological order, Mrs. Eisenhower, the beloved "Mamie", has come pretty close to being perfect at the job.

Bess Truman, too, while she made no bones about preferring Independence, was a model of good sense and modesty, and one suspects that if her husband had consulted her before some of his famous pop-offs, he could have saved himself some embarrassment.

Mrs. Roosevelt, of course, is in a class by herself, a politician in her own right. And if your taste runs to lady politicians, you would have to agree that she is a pretty effective one, as witness her scintillating performance last summer at the Democratic convention.

Mrs. Hoover was more in the tradition, a warm-hearted person who found many outlets for her energies without letting these activities interfere with the more important task of supporting her husband.

Preceding Mrs. Hoover was Grace Coolidge, and the whole nation now mourns her passing.

Mrs. Warren Harding was an extremely ambitious woman who seemed always to be pushing her husband beyond his depth. And she fully shared the tragic climax of his career.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, still living, was another woman of great intelligence who had some trouble keeping as far out of her husband's responsibilities as she should have. She was nevertheless a worthy First Lady.

And so it has gone. Our recent Presidents' wives have largely been creditable representatives of American womanhood.

From Washington—

Regime in Moscow Stronger

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

There is need for second thoughts on the Kremlin shake-up.

The first-blush reaction has been that Nikita Khrushchev's reshuffling of the Presidium reflects divisive strains and stresses in the top leadership of the Soviet Union.

Mr. Drummond

Most official comment suggests that we are witnessing new signs of weakness in the Soviet regime.

Before we swallow this wishful sedative, I venture to suggest that the opposite is nearer the truth.

It seems to me that in carrying through a large-scale remaking of the Presidium, the Kremlin has reduced in degree two of the greatest weaknesses which plague all dictatorships.

One weakness is that there is not enough debate and disagreement at the top as a means of invigorating policy.

Sign of Strength

The other weakness is that it has been almost impossible, as the reign of Stalin showed, for the Soviet dictatorship to alter any of its leadership except by bloody purge. (Stalin once told a subordinate: do this "or I will shorten you by a head.")

I cannot escape the conclusion that this Kremlin shake-up is a sign of strength, not of weakness, and that we will be deluding ourselves to interpret it otherwise.

Obviously there has been the frankest, fullest, hottest kind of debate within the Kremlin for the past 18 months over the post-Stalin policies of party boss Khrushchev, policies affecting the decentralization of industry, some relaxing of Soviet control over satellites and admission that there are different roads — not exclusively the Soviet road — to Communism.

This kind of debate strengthens a dictatorship if it does not end in indecision or bloodletting.

Can Have Debate

Khrushchev now has demonstrated that under his primacy the Kremlin can have debate, can resolve debate and in the end drop the dissenters from the highest pinnacle of the Soviet pyramid without summoning the secret police to carry away the bodies.

This makes the dictatorship more fluid and more flexible and I think we will be making a great mistake to construe these developments as indicating any crumbling from within.

I do not mean that the Soviet dictatorship does not suffer from stresses and strains which may ultimately alter its character and bring about its downfall. I am only saying that there is nothing evident in the current shake-up to show that these stresses are getting out of hand.

To depose without using the noose such senior Kremlinites as Molotov, Malenkov and Kaganovich, who have been in the inner circle longer than Khrushchev, is a notable achievement.

It confirms the rising authority of Khrushchev and it discloses the close alliance between Khrushchev and the Soviet Army. Note that Marshal Zhukov is advanced to full membership in the Presidium; you can deduce that Khrushchev's power and policies are eminently satisfactory to the military.

More Flexibility

I do not conclude that there is nothing in these developments welcome to the West. There is.

What is welcome is that Khrushchev now has fuller freedom to carry forward some changes in policy which were forced on the Kremlin because previous measures were not working. Khrushchev was forced to reverse Molotov on Austrian independence. He is forced to admit openly that Tito has the power and prestige to maintain an independent Yugoslavia. He is forced to concede a reduction of Soviet control over Poland. The end result of this trend could mean a willingness to negotiate on German reunification and possibly to accept a workable disarmament treaty.

These are the longer-view imponderables but, for one, I fail to see that the Kremlin shake-up justifies any special glee. It makes the Soviet dictatorship more flexible and therefore more resourceful.

Merry-Go-Round—

'FBI Bill' Blow to Justice

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Sincere, scholarly Joe O'Mahoney, the Democratic Senator from Wyoming, argued at length on the Senate floor recently that it was dangerous to rush legislation through Congress, that the Senate must never bypass its own Senate Rule 14 requiring legislation to go to an appropriate committee. He was talking about the civil rights bill, recently passed by the House.

Mr. Pearson

Last week, however, the same Senator O'Mahoney rushed the so-called "FBI bill" through the Senate Judiciary Committee in record time, only to have other colleagues prove the truth of what he had argued before — that haste makes for sloppy legislation.

For the FBI bill, jammed through the Judiciary committees of both houses allegedly to protect FBI files, is now found to have alarming loopholes which would set back judicial procedure in the United States for many years.

South to Benefit

Senators Ervin of North Carolina and McClellan of Arkansas, both former judges, seemed a little concerned over the haste when the bill came before them in the Judiciary Committee. Now southern legal experts point out that, if the civil rights bill passes, the South will benefit most from the right to examine pertinent portions of FBI files. For it will be the FBI which will be sent south to investigate violations of civil rights.

Senator Ervin has spent weeks arguing for the right of jury trial. But either in jury trials or in trials before a judge, defense lawyers now have the right under Supreme Court rulings to examine earlier statements made to the FBI in order to impeach the testimony of witnesses. The FBI bill would curtail that right.

Yet Sens. James Eastland of Mississippi and Olin Johnston of South Carolina, both members of the Judiciary Committee, and vigorous opponents of civil rights, were among those who wanted to OK the FBI bill in record time.

Brownell Stammers

When Attorney General Brownell testified before the Senate Judiciary subcommittee, Senator O'Mahoney asked: "Are there any further questions?"

"Yes," replied Aubrey Gasque, counsel of the subcommittee, "I should like to ask the Attorney General whether it is true that this bill merely clarified the Jencks case, and does not change other judicial proceedings."

Mr. Brownell did not answer yes, as expected. He hemmed and hawed, finally replied:

"The bill speaks for itself."

"Well, I can answer that question," volunteered Chairman O'Mahoney. "That's exactly what the bill does."

The bill had been handed O'Mahoney by Bill Rogers, handsome, popular assistant to Brownell, and O'Mahoney apparently hadn't studied it as carefully as he does most bills. The scholarly Senator from Wyoming spent weeks defending the Supreme Court when Roosevelt wanted to override it; but this time he spent only a few hours studying an FBI bill to override it.

Legal experts now find the FBI bill would override not merely the Supreme Court but years of judicial procedure worked out by the courts and the American Bar Association to protect an individual from an oppressive government. Here are some of the things it would override and the people who should be worried about it

The National Association of Manufacturers: The FBI bill would permit a field day to the government in antitrust prosecutions. General Motors, Du Pont, any other corporation could be prosecuted without giving them the right to see the files of a competing firm on which the prosecution is based.

Of interest to taxpayers — In tax cases against you, the government could seize your files and financial statements and you would have no access to them.

Of interest to lawyers — The FBI bill wipes out Rule 16 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Judicial Procedure, namely the right of discovery. This has nothing to do with the Jencks case.

To get a clearer picture of what the FBI does, it's necessary to go back to the Mooney case where Tom Mooney, a California labor leader, was convicted in connection with the bombing of the San Francisco preparedness parade in 1916. Twenty-three years later, Mooney was released from jail, because the government of California had withheld evidence in the trial.

In other words, the state had evidence which indicated Mooney was not guilty, but Mooney's defense attorneys had no way of getting that evidence, because they could not see the records of the state or the state's police files. Since then the "right of discovery" under Rule 16 has been established by the courts with the approval of Congress. Under this rule, any citizen being prosecuted for a crime has a right to see the documents the government has taken by judicial process.

The new FBI bill now wipes this out. This was probably why Attorney General Brownell hemmed and hawed and did not answer the question: "Does this bill only clarify the Jencks case?"

NOTE — In the Jencks case, Justice Brennan, writing 7 to 1 for the Supreme Court, ruled that when a government witness — Harvey Matusow — gave information voluntarily, then his statements and reports also must be made available to the defense. This goes further than Rule 16, which applies only to evidence which is not voluntary but obtained by seizure or judicial process. In the Jencks case, Matusow later testified that he had lied about Clifford Jencks of the Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers. The Supreme Court decreed that the Justice Department should have given Jencks' lawyers copies of Matusow's various FBI reports to let them see whether Matusow had been consistent and whether he was the kind of unreliable person he later turned out to be.

U. S. Inflation Powerful Ally of Communism

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—Whatever the past weeks political explosions in Moscow may mean, they cannot alter the fact that international Communism has going for it in the United States a powerful and destructive ally.

That ally is currenty inflation which could — and may — continue to the point of destruction for the American social and economic fabric in an era of United States bankruptcy.

Mr. Wilson

Inflation is an economic juvenile delinquent. Responsibility for it must be charged to the citizenry at large, just as in the case of the anti-social teenagers who murder or rape.

The late Josef Stalin thought and hoped he saw what was coming in the United States after World War II when he laid a course of fraud, chicanery and deceit toward the international Communist objective of world conquest. Stalin, however, lost two of the three big bets on which he placed Communism's blue chips after World War II.

Bet No. 1 was that the United States would suffer a shattering depression soon after the fighting ended.

Afraid Of Bullets

Bet No. 2 was that the United States and the United Nations lacked the will to meet aggression with bullets, as in Korea.

Bet No. 3 remains undecided. It was the biggest bet of all that the United States would spend itself ino bankruptcy.

Lenin, himself, stated the proposition that any capitalist democracy (or republic) must eventually destroy itself by over-spending. That remains prime Communist doctrine. If the doctrine proves to be correct, the loss of bets one and two will mean nothing other than delay in Communism's conquest.

If the doctrine is wrong, then it is only a question of time before the free world, led by the United States, triumphs over Communism in hot or cold war or a combination of both.

It does not make of the United States an ignoble materialistic society to concede that the American way of life is pegged securely to the integrity of the U.S. dollar and what it will buy at home and abroad. The purchasing power of the dollar is skidding downward, but not yet far enough to lose the respect and affection of men and women everywhere.

Lot Of Abuse

The reputation of a well-established piece of money such as the U.S. dollar can take a lot of abuse. The end, however, is devastatingly sudden and complete when it does come. The Institute of Life Insurance calculated nearly 10 years ago that from 1900 to 1950, the U.S. dollar had lost nearly two-thirds of its value.

Largely responsible for this, said the Institute, was government borrowing during World War I, throughout all of FDRs White House years and in all but two years of Harry S. Trumans presidency. In none of those many years did the elected representatives of a free people dare levy taxes sufficient to pay for the government spending they so freely authorized.

President Eisenhower is getting the Treasury out of the red, but not much. He is spending at a rate which could make Stalins bet No. 3 fairly good, especially if Congress cut taxes and fails to cut federal spending.

Behind The News—

Malenkov Lucky If He Escapes Execution

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Georgi M. Malenkov will be a lucky man if he is not shot as the result of the big Russian Communist Party purge.

It is evident now that Malenkov is regarded as the most dangerous of the big three "anti - party" men involved in the dispute among Soviet leaders.

Mr. McCann

Charges amounting to criminal conspiracy have been made against him by Nikita S. Khrushchev and other victors in the dispute.

If these charges, made in speeches, are not followed by a formal prosecution, it surely will mean that there has been a radical change in Communist Party procedure.

Vyacheslav M. Molotov and Lazar M. Kaganovich, the other two members of the "Big Three," have been linked with some of the offenses attributed to Malenkov.

Last Of "Bolsheviks"

What seems to put Malenkov on the spot is the fact that he is the youngest of the three, one of the new generation of Soviet leaders.

Molotov and Kaganovich are survivors of a past generation.

Molotov is 67. He is the last of the "Old Bolsheviks" who had already reached the top at the time of the 1917 Revolution. Kaganovich is 63. Both have been on the down grade since the death of Josef Stalin.

But Melenkov is only 55. He is one of the new generation of Communists who are able administrators and technicians as well as politicians. Some people regard him as the brainiest of Russia's big men.

If Khrushchev and the rest of the victorious leaders in the Kremlin dispute decide to follow up their present charges by formal legal action, they may or may not spare Molotov and Kaganovich.

But Malenkov will remain a potential danger as long as he remains alive.

May Be No Change

Khrushchev and his colleagues may be doing some serious thinking about their proper course.

If they shoot Malenkov or put him in prison — possibly with the other two—it will be a confession that the Communist system in Russia is no different than it was in Stalin's day.

The so-called "collective leadership" which was supposed to usher in a new day in Russian Communist policy will have been exposed as a fiction.

It will be clear evidence that a dictatorship is essential in Russia, even if there are several "collective" dictators instead of one.

But from reports now leaking out of Moscow, there are strong indications that Malenkov, Molotov, Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov, who was purged from the Communist Party Presidium with them, really did make a bid to oust Khrushchev as the No. 1 collective leader by replacing him as first secretary of the Russian Communist Party.

There are indications also that for a time they had hope of succeeding.

At the White House—

Ike's Caddy Moves Fast

By PATRICIA WIGGINS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

President Eisenhower didn't know it, but two Gettysburg youngsters spent one whole night in a car outside the Gettysburg Country Club so they could be the first signed on to caddy for you know who the next morning.

It worked. "Spud" Eckert, 16, caddied for the President, and Bob Codori, 15, drew Gen. Arthur S. Nevins, Eisenhower's golfing partner. There was some question after the match was over whether it was worth it. The President whips around the nine-hole course twice with his golf cart in about two hours. That's the usual time for others to play 11 holes. The caddies end up running most of the way, catching their breath briefly at each green.

"Whew, we've had it," puffed Spud at the close of the morning work-out. They sprawled on the lawn with a soda pop to recuperate before taking on the next customers.

The President, an amateur chef, has become a frozen food fan at his farm.

At the White House in Washington, his food problems are worked out sort of by remote control between Mrs. Eisenhower and the help. But at the farm, Eisenhower delights in taking a personal hand in culinary matters.

He is said to be "intrigued" by the kitchen's frozen food department. It includes a big locker that was installed when the old farm house was renovated.

The President treated Konrad Adenauer to an all-frozen food lunch at the farm during the German chancellor's recent visit. Since then he's been experimenting with a new frozen food dish: Noodles and chicken.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harold Heffran
(Beverly Faye Brewer)

Brewer-Heffran Nuptials Take Place in Belle Vernon

Beverly Faye Brewer, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Fred Brewer, of Main St., Belle Vernon, became the bride of Richard Harold Heffran in a candlelight ceremony solemnized in the First Baptist Church of Belle Vernon, at 7:30 p. m., Friday, June 28.

The bridegroom is the son of James Harold Heffran, of Speers, and the late Lillian Heffran.

The Rev. James Puz, church pastor, officiated at the double ring service before an altar decorated with ferns, white gladiolus and carnations. The aisle used by the bridal party was lined with white crash. White satin bows marked the family pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace over a ruffled skirt of nylon tulle. It was styled with a scalloped neckline accented with iridescent sequins and the long sleeves ended in points at the wrist. Her fingertip veil fell from a scalloped headpiece trimmed with iridescent sequins and she carried a white lace covered Bible topped with a white orchid with satin shower streamers knotted with lilies of the valley. Her only jewelry was a double strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Matron of Honor

Matron of honor was Mrs. Donna Moats, sister of the bride, who wore a bouffant floor length gown of yellow nylon tulle and white scalloped lace over taffeta. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations tied with aqua ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Linda Brewer, sister of the bride, Emma Dale, of Fayette City, a cousin of the bride and Ruth Lutes, of Belle Vernon, a friend of the bride. They wore gowns and headpieces identical to that of the honor attendant only in aqua. They carried colonial bouquets of aqua carnations tied with yellow streamers.

Flower girls were Lu Ann Moats and Pamela Brewer, nieces of the bride. They wore gowns of yellow nylon tulle over skirts of Chantilly lace and taffeta. The scoop necklines were accented with ruffled tulle. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow carnations with aqua ribbon.

Dale Allen Brewer, of Belle Vernon, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

James Heffran, of Speers, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Kenneth Brewer, of Uniontown, William Brewer and Emery Brewer, of Belle Vernon, brothers of the bride and Leonard Liedeke, of St. Charles, Mich., close friend of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride chose a gray lace dress over pink taffeta with pink accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Grandparents Present

Attending were the grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Haywood, Sr., of Mather and Mrs. Martha Brewer, of Belle Vernon. The bridegroom's two grandmothers, Mrs. Hattie Heffran, of Speers and Mrs. Mary Crilley, of Smithton, also attended. All of the grandmothers wore white carnation corsages with their ensembles.

A reception in the church social rooms followed. There were about 250 guests present from Michigan, Ohio, Pittsburgh, Jefferson, Clairton, Smithton, West Virginia, Ford City, Washington, D. C. and valley towns.

A four tiered wedding cake centered the bridal table and white wedding bells were used in the decorative motif.

Later in the evening the couple left for a trip to Canada. For traveling the bride wore a gray sheath dress with matching jacket, white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride attended Brownsville and Bellmar High Schools and was employed at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital as a nurse's aid. Mr. Heffran was graduated from Charleroi High School and served five years in the navy. He is now employed at the Allenport mill.

Mr. and Mrs. Heffran are now residing in their newly furnished apartment in Speers.

The evening preceding the wedding there was a rehearsal party at the Brewer home. The bride and bridegroom gave their attendants gifts.

Annual Dinner Dance Held at Country Club

The annual July 4 dinner dance was held at the Monongahela Valley Country Club under the sponsorship of the Women's Golf Association.

Canapes were served on the lawn and the buffet was arranged for the serving of dinner in the club dining room. Red, white and blue decorations were used on the large table and on the individual dining tables. Miniature fire crackers were used to decorate the mantlepiece and stairway. American flags were arranged at the doorway.

After dinner there was dancing to the music of the Rhythmatics.

A committee of club members headed by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Sloan, Jr. and Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Ellis was in charge.

Joseph Drotar Is Feted at Surprise Party

A group of 70 relatives, neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Joseph Drotar, Ohio St., for a surprise party marking his 52nd birthday anniversary, Saturday evening.

It was an outdoor affair and highlighting the social program was the serving of refreshments and a four tiered birthday cake, which was baked by a neighbor, Mrs. Mary Trembush.

Mr. Drotar was born in Austria Hungary and came to this country, when he was four years old. He had a twin brother, now deceased.

Guests attended from McKeesport, Donora, Charleroi, Fayette City and Belle Vernon.

The guest of honor received many gifts.

All-Star Game No Financial Success

The 1957 edition of the Mon Valley League All-Star game was not exactly a smashing financial success. A threat of rain limited the crowd for Saturday's contest between the Mon Valley All-Stars and the crack Mt. Washington team of the Greater Pittsburgh League. As a result, the net receipts were something less than $30 . . . Jim Heise, who pitched for Scottdale in the old Big Ten League, has been called up by the Washington Senators. He had spent just one year in the minors — with Midland, Texas, in the Class B Southwestern League — after a fine college career at West Virginia.

That home run Pappy Johnson hit last week to give the Monessen Ozarks a 5-4 victory over Charleroi in Mon Valley League play was only the third ever stroked over the high left field barrier at the Magic City diamond. Other circuit clouts were belted at that point by Pete Bakaitis, of Charleroi, and Ed Kearns, of Donora . . . George (Jake) Kovalcik, popular assistant football coach at Donora High, is toying with the idea of giving up his teaching career. Ko-Valcik is unopposed in the general election for the office of tax collector in his hometown.

Worrell to Rejoin Old Teammates

Red Worrell, the brilliant Centerville High footballer, will find two old teammates at Penn State this fall. They are sophomores Johnny Bozick and Frank Korbini, both of whom figure to see considerable action with the varsity . . . Incidentally the fellow who really lured Worrell into the Nittany stronghold was Earl Bruce, former Brownsville and California Teachers coach. Bruce is now freshman boss at State . . . Insiders claim that Pitt made a last ditch effort to land Worrell. However the Redhead shied away amid rumors of an NCAA investigation at the Panther school. It turns out that the rumors aren't true at all. Pitt is one school where the athletic linen is clean. And we mean CLEAN.

Lou Kichinko, our baseball correspondent, has a new nickname: "Pop." The tag was started by California High basketball coach Bill Watkins and now just about everybody refers to Lou in the same fashion. "It's nice to have some 'sons' calling me pop," laughs Kichinko, the father of one daughter, no sons . . . Jack Smodic, baseball coach at Bethlehem High, has slammed ten homers already this season for the Luzerne Bells in the Fayette County League . . . Our thanks to Andrew Jotko, corresponding secretary of the Mon Valley Checker Association for keeping us thoroughly informed on the state tourney here over the weekend.

Karenchak, Bonari Are LL Managers

Alex Karenchak of CIO and George Bonari of VFW will manage the city's two teams in the Little League district playoffs. They won that right by piloting their respective clubs to the first half titles in their divisions. As usual, all other LL managers will assist them . . . Incidentally the All-Star teams in both LL divisions will be selected sometime this week. At the moment, loop officials are double-checking eligibility lists . . . Conspicuous by his absence in today's All-Star game will be the National League's second leading hitter, Dee Fondy, of the Pirates. Dee certainly had a right to be in the game.

Wimbledon Win Worth $25,000 To Lew Hoad

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—A piece of Wimbledon silverware parlayed with the Yankee dollar finally paid off today with the revelation that Aussise tennis star Lew Hoad turned professional three months ago.

The time in between has been consumed by what promoter Jack Kramer calls a "secretive game of cops and robbers." Actually it was a cloak and dagger opus which was more of a who-care than a whodunit.

Technically Hoad has been a pro since April 17 and his sole aim since that time was to win at Wimbledon for an extra $25,000.

Hoad stopped to see Kramer en route to Europe and at that time they put the deal on paper and shipped it to Hoad'ss attorney in Autralia. Kramer offered him $125,000 over a two-year span if he won at Wimbledon; and only $100,000 if he lost the big one in Britain.

Examined By Doctor

Hoad was examined by Kramer's doctors to see whether the blond bomber was pulling a fast one because of an arthritic condition and pronounced a good gamble. Hoad went to Europe, worked out the kinks in his sore back and arm, breezed at Wimbledon and came back to pick up the marbles.

All of which means that, barring an actual signature, the agreement was in the bag that the amateur fathers were holding.

Hoad takes a very matter of fact view of the whole bit.

"I have to get mine while I little the polished pro in his tieless shirt and brown suede shoes sans socks. "I never know what this back of mine will do."

Kramer is, of course, too smart to be caught off base. He has an escape clause permitting cancellation of the contract if Hoad comes up lame and halt for a period of four weeks

Pancho's Dim View

Big Jake's oyster isn't filled with pearls, however. Pancho Gonzales, the world professional champion, takes a dim view of Hoad turning pro at this point His fear is that Hoad will take a cuffing in two tournaments ahead as well as in a European tour with Ken Rosewall, Frank Sedgman and Pancho Segura. Thus the shine would be off the apple when Gonzales opens a 100-match tour against Hoad in Australia come January.

There has been much talk between Kramer and Gonzales dealing with possible contractual lawsuits and appearnaces before "the man in the robe" All probably will be straightened out in good time.

Meanwhile, with Hoad notorious for playing careless tennis when he isn't in the mood, Kramer has set up a bonus system to keep him on his toes. Now Larrupin Lew is ready to take spring training in August, pro style, and Kramer's three-month plan has really put the pros in business.

Yale university, in 1864, established the first college of fine arts in the United States.

Ozarks in 12-1 Loss At Fay City

Fayette City had no trouble overpowering the Monessen Ozarks, 12-1, yesterday in Mon Valley League action at the losers diamond.

FC pushed over seven runs in the third inning to assure things in a hurry.

Barry Hough held the Ozarks to eight scattered hits as he coasted to the easy success.

Tinse Manown and Jack Parrs rapped out triples to pace the winners at bat. Bill Mitnick also had a triple for the Ozarks.

The setback lowered the Monessen boys deeper into seventh place.

Tonight the Ozarks play host to winless West Newton. They need a victory desperately to keep alive their playoff hopes.

Yennerell Seeking Opponent for Morris

JEANNETTE, Pa. (UP)—Mike Yennerell, Jeannette boxing promoter, said today he will go to New York this week to seek an opponent for Johnny Morris, Pittsburgh middleweight, in a main bout planned for McKees Stadium here Aug. 1.

Yennerell had sought to match Morris with Wilf Greaves, Canadian ex-patriot, but his efforts were unsuccessful.

PONY Loop All-Star Playoff Plans Carded

Monessen's PONY League All-Stars will compete in District 7 Region 2 during the playoff competition leading to participation in the Sixth Annual World Series set for Washington, Pa, on August 26, it has been announced.

Albert Ferrara, Donora Junior High School principal, will again head District 7, which comprises, in addition to Monessen, three other familiar Monongahela Valley rivals, Monongahela, Donora and Brownsville, and Vesta, Masontown, Greene County and Ellsworth.

Regional Director William S. Wyke of Pittsburgh has announced the alignment for the eight districts of Region 2, also dividing the districts into four teams for Section 1 and four teams for Section 2. The champions of the respective sections will play a best-of-three series to determine the Region's representative in the World Series.

District playoffs will begin on July 29. The Sectional playoffs will be held August 5 and the three-game regional contests on August 12.

Two Region 2 finalists in the past have gone on to national championships in World Series play, Washington in 1955 and Monongahela in 1954 Other entries who have carried Region 2's colors into Series play have been Munhall and Wilkinsburg.

Don Dahle Seeks Second Straight

Hard-driving Don Dahle will be trying for his second straight feature stock car victory at Washington Raceway Tuesday night

Dahle, currently running third in the Pittsburgh Racing Assn standings behind Dick Linder and Herb Scott, won his first Washington feature of the season last week

The Bridgeville driver, who pushes his car harder than most drivers on the track, is noted for going high and outside rather than to work for an opening near the rail.

But Dahle figures it's the only way to beat Linder and Scott, each having taken three main events already at Washington this year. At least 40 other drivers will be on hand to try out their ideas on beating the front-runners when the first of nine races starts at 8:30 p. m

Donora Loses, 2-1, Despite 3-Hitter

Despite three-hit hurling by Vic Garcia and Ken Barbao, the Donora entry in the Mon Valley League went down to a 2-1 defeat at the hands of Charleroi last night at Donora.

Two Donora errors early in the game gave the visitors all the lee-way they needed, scoring one in the first and one in the second. Donora garnered its lone marker in the fifth.

Freddie Briggs, on the hill for Charleroi, scattered six hits as he fanned nine and issued five bases on balls. Ironically, the only extra base blows in the game were also clubbed by the losers, Al Zyga and Ken Barbao hitting for two bases.

The win kept Charleroi within striking distance of league-leading Fayette City.

Line score:

Alston Decides to Wait to Name Starting Pitcher

By LEO H. PETERSEN

ST. LOUIS (UP) — National League manager Walt Alston added a tinge of mystery to the 24th annual All-Star Game today by deciding to wait "until just before game time" before naming his startig pitcher.

The Brooklyn Dodgers' pilot first leaned towards Curt Simmons, the Philadelphia Phillies' comeback left hander, but indicated Monday night he might give the assignment to another southpaw, Johnny Antonelli of the New York Giants.

"I remember how well Antonelli pitched for me in the All - Star Game last year, and I have a feeling he might turn back those American Leaguers more effectively than Simmons," said Alston, who added, "I might not make up my mind until just before game time."

The annual mid-season classic, which will be broadcast and televised nationally (NBC), was scheduled to start at 1.30 p.m c.d.t. at Busch Stadium.

Running AL Starter

American League manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees declined to engage in any such guessing game. Irked over his non-too-glossy All - Star record — he has been beaten five times in six tries—Stengel selected Jim Bunning, the Detroit Tigers' side-arming right hander, as his starting pitcher. Bunning has won 10 games and lost two this year.

Simmons has posted eight victories and lost four for the Phillies this season after being considered "washed up" last year Antonelli's record is a mediocre 7-7, but Alston still can't forget how the nifty Giants' lefty toiled in last year's 7-3 NL victory at Washington.

During a four-inning stint, Antonelli held the American Leaguers to four hits and yielded no runs and no walks. If he is chosen as the NL starter, Simmons probably will be by - passed by Jack Sanford of the Phillies or Larry Jackson of the St Louis Cardinals for the middle three innings.

Loes No. 2

For his second hurler—no All-Star pitcher is allowed to work more than three innigs—Stegel indicated he would call on the Baltimore Orioles' Billy Loes. He would then have two lefties—his own Bobby Shantz and the Chicago White Sox' Billy Pierce available for the late innings.

In naming the remainder of his lineup, Stengel, along with Alston, had no choice except to arrange the batting order. The other eight starters were determined by the fan poll, although baseball commissioner Ford Frick scratched two Cincinnati players from the National League lineup because of a late-hour avalanche of votes by Redleg fans.

Willie Mays of the Giants was picked to start in center field and Hank Aaron was named to open in right field for the National Leaguers by Frick. The other NL starters included catcher Ed Bailey of Cincinnati, first baseman Stan Musial of St. Louis, second baseman Johnny Temple of Cincinnati, shortstop Roy McMillan of Cincinnati, third baseman Don Hoak of Cincinnati, and left fielder Frank Robinson of Cincinnati.

Two Yanks Start

Stengel had two of his own Yankees in the AL starting lineup —catcher Yogi Berra and center fielder Mickey Mantle. The other starters were first baseman Vic Wertz of Cleveland, second baseman Nellie Fox of Chicago, shortstop Harvey Kuenn of Detroit, third baseman George Kell of Baltimore, left fielder Ted Williams of Boston, and right fielder Al Kaline of Detroit.

The National Leaguers, victors in six of the last seven classics, remained a slim 6-5 favorite for this latest renewal before a sell-out crowd of 31,000.

The weatherman predicted partly cloudy skies with a chance of showers ending in the forenoon In the event of rain, the game will be re-scheduled for tonight. A continuous downpour would delay the game until Wednesday morning or afternoon.

'Pooped' Chip Shots

By "pooped" chip shots I mean those little shots in which the clubhead hits the ground behind the ball, sending the ball only a few feet when several yards are wanted.

On chip shots, where only 20 yards or so of distance is needed, there is no need for the body to turn or move sideways. To introduce body action into these little shots is to complicate the problem. Just keep the body still, and it becomes easier to hit the ball solidly on the clubface.

Hands and arms are sufficient to produce the power needed here. Just hit down and through the ball, sending the clubhead straight toward the objective and keeping the head still. And keep the action crisp and smooth.

Ravens Hit By Homer Barrage

Italian Hall unloaded a home run barrage to clip the Ravens, 7-3, last night in City Softball League action.

The winners tallied six runs in the fifth inning, thanks to two tremendous circuit blasts, to assure the victory.

Manager Steve Hardoby stroked a grand-slammer to provide the big blow. Moments later, Skeeter Danser came through with a round-tripper with a mate aboard.

The Ravens opened the scoring in the fourth inning on Tom D'Errico's four-master. Then in the seventh inning the Birds scored twice on Lou Kunka's homer with a man on base.

Italian Hall also picked up a run in the fourth on a single by Delio Perozzi and double by Ed Macik.

Hardoby, Danser and Walt Boord all had two hits for the winners.

Tonight's City League game will send the Cro-Ams against the Myfords.

Ford Frick Gets New Pact But Same $65,000 Salary

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Ford Frick will continue as baseball commissioner for another seven years, but his election contained somewhat of a slap even though he remains on the job.

The 16 major league owners, who voted unanimously to retain the former sports writer until Sept. 21, 1965, failed to give him a raise. He will get the same $65,000 per year for the new term that he has received on his current seven-year contract, which expires Sept. 21, 1958.

Frick had virtually no comment when notified of his re-election. Instead, he said that "about all I have to say is 'thank you.'"

Frick was notified of his appointment by Tom Yawkey, owner of the Boston Red Sox, and Phil Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs. Then the owners deferred action on whether to let the league presidents work out details of Frick's new contract, or turn it over to a special committee.

Election of the commissioner to a new term was the only activity of the joint session of the two leagues. The American League held lengthy discussions earlier on two points—National League franchise shifts and catastrophe insurance—but took no vote.

The National League rejected a bid by George V. McLaughlin of New York for a franchise in the Borough of Queens, voted in favor of extending the major league-National Association of Baseball agreement for five years, and heard a report by league attorney Lewis Carroll on recent hearings in Washington on legislation for or against baseball.

Sports Car 'Gymkhanna' At West Newton

West Newton Lions Club and Steel Cities Region, SCCA, will stage a giant "Gymkhanna" for sports car owners on Sunday, July 14, on a quarter-mile course, Baughman Athletic Field, West Newton.

This July 14 event will mark the first ever presented for public viewing in Western Pennsylvania. It is expected to attract drivers from West Virginia, Maryland and Ohio besides those from this section of the state.

Gymkhannas are definitely not speed contests but are another type of safe sports car activity where competitors can expect tests of driving skill over the course that is the zaniest and most unusual that can be devised.

A crowd of some 3,000 spectators are anticipated by the West Newton service club. Over 100 top sports car drivers will take part in the competition.

All proceeds from the Gymkhanna, which is actually an obstacle course, will be turned over to the West Newton Lions for its extensive welfare and community betterment programs.

The competition will get under way at 2 p. m. sharp. In case of rain, the event will be staged at the Baughman site on Sunday, July 21.

Administrative duties relative to the 2-hour-long event is being handled by the Lions Club, while the technical phase is in charge of Steel Cities Region, the same sports car club that stages the famous Cumberland, (Md.) Race Classic each spring.

Details for the coming competition is being worked out by coordinating committees headed up by Dr. Howard E. Markle of West Newton and Stanley R. March, Regional Executive, Steel Cities Region.

Braves Defeat Pirates, 10 to 5

A bases-loaded triple by Danny Cosner in the sixth frame gave the league-leading Braves of the local Minor League a 10-5 decision over the second-place Pirates. Cosner's blow broke a 5 - 5 deadlock.

Major Corley of the Pirates tried desperately to keep his team in the game with a double and triple in four trips to the plate. Ron Junk, the winning hurler, contributed a triple to his own cause.

Nedrow in Local LL No-hitter

Bruce Nedrow fashioned a no-hitter for Park Service in a 2-0 victory over the league-leading Ravens in local Little League American Division play last night.

Nedrow was also the hitting star of the game with a homer in the third which accounted for the only runs scored in the closely-played contest. Only one Raven batter reached first, on a walk in the fifth.

Billy Katchmarik's four-hitter for the Ravens would ordinarily have been good enough to win but not against a 12-strikeout, one-walk no-hitter.

A pitcher's duel also featured the other game in the local circuit last night, VFW tying Park Service for second place with a 3-1 victory over Page Local.

Eric Crabtree for Page Local gave up only four hits against an eight-hitter by Richard Steele of VFW.

Jim Beeler led the Vets' attack with a double and single in three trips while Pourzenick had a double and single for Page.

No games were played in the National Division due to wet grounds yesterday.

Two games are on tap in both leagues tonight with VFW and Park Service and the Ravens vs. Page Local in the American Division while its the Legion-Lions and CIO-Elks in the National Division.

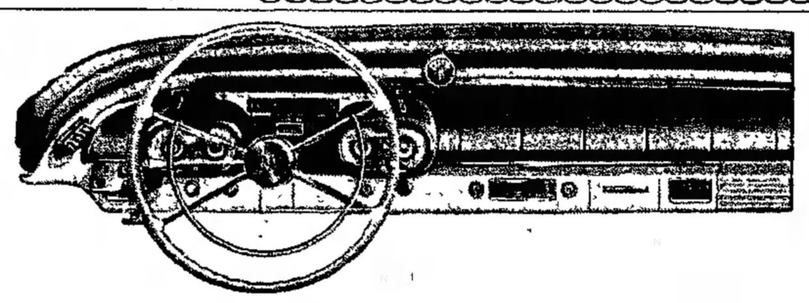
MORE INSIDE...

The Big M is the roomiest car in its field. To match the Mercury Monterey's hip room alone in any other car would cost you at least $1,000 more. And behind the wheel, you can command Mercury exclusives like a power seat that "remembers" your favorite position, and a Merc-O-Matic Keyboard Control that outdates other push-button drives.

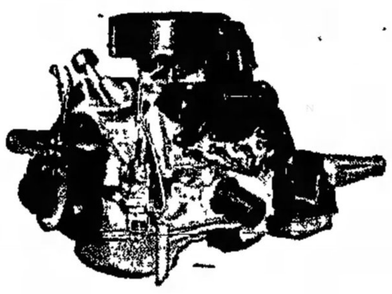


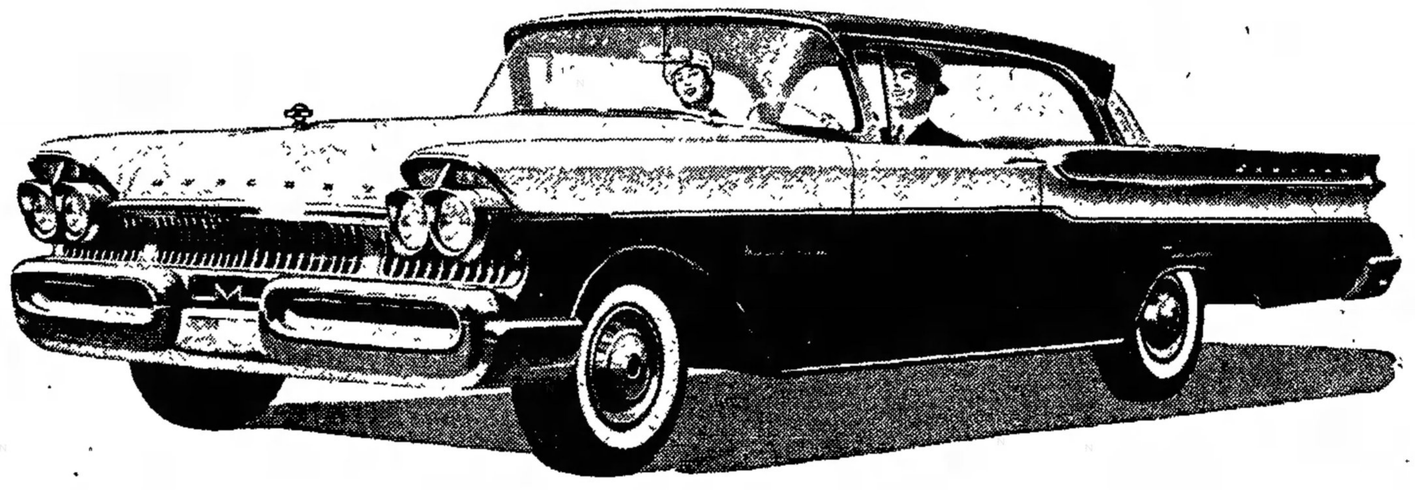
MORE OUTSIDE...

The Big M is the widest car in its field. To match Mercury's width you'd have to buy one of America's three most expensive cars, costing at least $2,000 more. And Mercury's Dream-Car Design is shared with no other car. In every distinctive feature, The Big M is styled to stay newer longer, protect future resale value.

MORE UNDER THE HOOD...

No other car at the Monterey's price gives you such high standard horsepower (255). To match this power in any competitive car, you'd have to pay over $150 more. The Big M gives you the highest torque, for a regular production engine, in its field (405 lb-ft). Mercury's standard compression (9.75 to 1) would cost you over $500 more in any other car.





...MORE WAYS YOUR BEST BUY

To the above facts add these: You have to pay over $200 more to get any other car with a real four-beam headlamp system, like The Big M's Quadri-Beam headlamps. Over $80 more to get a four-barrel carburetor as standard equipment on any competitive car. Over $130 more to match the Mercury Monterey's brake size. No other car at any price can match The Big M's Floating Ride—achieved with the most effective combination of bump-smothering features ever put between you and the road: for example, Full-Cushion Shock Absorbers and swept-back ball-joint front suspension. Record Timber Sales From State Game Sites

During the Game Commission fiscal year ending May 31, 1957, sales of timber from State Game Lands aggregated more than $360,000.

This was the highest return to the Game Fund from this source. The previous fiscal year's timber sales, a record to that time, was nearly $190,000, not much more than half the last year sum.

This record cut was due to numerous factors the most important of which are:

1. Recommendations of Commission members that cutting be increased to provide browse.

2. Removal of storm and wind damaged timber, especially in the Northeastern section of the state.

3. Personnel was available to assist field men select and cruise saleable material.

The Commission does not anticipate so great a return regularly. Probably the amount for wood products sold will approximate $200,000 in each of the coming 12-month periods.

Make Inventories

Commission specialists make timber inventories and sustained yield management plans, which are necessary to the conduct of this program. The result will be a continuous timber harvest, or cropping, that will open areas in dense growth to the benefit of wildlife without injury to woodlands.

Adequate watershed preservation and soil erosion prevention will continue to be major considerations in the plans.

In addition to cutting saw timber and pulpwood on Game Lands, it was necessary to extensively cut woody vegetation of little commercial value in northern counties of the state, last winter, to provide much-needed browse for deer. Though natural foods were in short supply the results were very gratifying. Deer losses during the last winter and spring were considered exceptionally low.

Coons Adjust—

Game Protector Jack Brion, Allegheny County, has some interesting remarks about racoons in the Pittsburgh area. He says,

Judging from complaints received, it would appear that racoons are trying to adapt themselves to modern living conditions. Among recent complaints was one about the racoon that managed to enter a home and set up housekeeping in the air ducts of the hot air furnace. Another entered a house under construction, tore up enough insulation to make a nest and raised four young in the attic crawl space.

'Still another appears just after dark each night, climbs on top of a window air conditioning unit and remains most of the night. One 'ringtail' spent several evenings attempting to lift the lid of a sunken garbage unit without success. The home owner reports that the clever animal now brings a buddy, and the two of them are able to lift the lid and feed on the garbage. A South Hills woman reported a 'peeping Tom' to the local police. When a 'prowl car' arrived on the scene the officers found a large raccoon on the window sill of the woman's bedroom!"

Bounties Paid—

The record of bounties paid on predators killed in Pennsylvania during the period June 1, 1956, to May 1, 1957, inclusive, shows:

A total of $124.80 was paid from the Game Fund for 10,459 valid the Game Fund for 10459 valid claims in the last twelve months. In the Commission's previous fiscal year $114,407 were expended as bounty payments on 9,989 acceptable claims.

In the last fiscal year, the rewards were given on 11,816 gray foxes, ($4 each) 17,849 red foxes, ($4 each) and 1,234 great-horned owls ($5 each). The same bounty was paid, during the preceding year, on each of these predators as follows 11,323 gray foxes; 15,915 red foxes; and 1,092 great-horned owls.

Deer Jam—

South of Lehighton, on a Saturday afternoon in June, 8 deer wandered onto the Northeast Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike. Highway traffic drove the deer into the Lehigh Tunnel. Running to and fro before fast-moving vehicles they not only caused excitement but held up traffic for two hours before they finally were driven out of the tunnel.

Iron Cross Flying Over Germany

By CHARLES CORDDRY

WIESBADEN, Germany (UP)—The Iron Cross is becoming a familiar sight again in the skies over Germany.

"It gives you a jolt at first, doesn't it?" said an American air man. He pointed to a jet with the markings of the German Luftwaffe millions once feared.

Although the Iron Cross is painted on the fuselage, there is no swastika such as adorned the tails of German planes which once terrorized the fleeing citizens of Paris and battered London. This time the German air force is hailed as a vitally needed addition to free world defense.

It flies Lockheed T33 jet trainers and Republic F84F jet fighter-bombers, descended from the World War II P38 Lightnings; and P47 Thunderbolts that helped bring down Hitler's Fortress Europa.

Training Going Well

After long delays, Luftwaffe training now seems to be going well. The first wing of F84F Thunderstreaks will become operational in late summer or early fall Four more wings, including one with F 86 Sabre Jets, are expected during 1958.

It will be 1967, however, before the entire 20-wing German air force is ready. This will be two years after the Germans' 12 army divisions are expected to be fully formed.

One of the most important men attending the rebirth of the Luftwaffe is a 37-year-old American colonel named Mark H. Vinzant Jr., who was born in Newberry, Fla., and now calls Haverford, Pa., home.

He is charged with the operation of three big air bases, training the German air force and training pilots from 14 other countries under military aid programs. His U.S. Air Force salary is about $10,400 a year, plus an estimated $2,200 in housing and food allowances.

With headquarters at Furstenfeldbruck — the Randolph Field of Germany some 17 miles west of Munich — Vinzant now has more than 5,100 Germans in training and an American staff of 1,395. His two other fields are at Landsberg and Kaufbeuren, 25 and 50 miles, respectively, from Furstenfeldbruck.

Americans Being Reduced

The colonel, a veteran of 4,300 flying hours, figures the U.S. Air Force will be out of a job as far as the Luftwaffe is concerned in another year or so. The Germans have staffs paralleling U.S. training units. As they become more effective, U.S. elements are cut The U.S. group should be down to 500 men by next January.

Vinzant is proud of the Germans' safety rate. There has been one fatality since training started in January, 1956. In that time there have been 60,000 flying hours including 26,000 with jets.

Oddly, there have been relatively few World War II German pilot volunteers. By now, 1,100 were expected, but only 500 signed up Vinzant attributes this to poor military pay — one-fourth to one-third that of Americans—rather than any opposition to German rearmament.

The German goal is a tactical force of 1,326 aircraft organized into 18 wings of fighters and fighter-bombers and two wings of transport planes. America has supplied 250 planes to date, including 35 F84F combat types.

Luftwaffe manpower eventually may reach 150,000.

There are no calling hours and friends hre asked not to send flowers Contributions may be sent to the Heart Fund or to the Clarke School for the Deaf, where Mrs. Coolidge, a teacher, first met the quiet young lawyer who was destined to become the 30th President of the United States.

The funeral will be held Wednesday a the Edwards Congregational Church here and the body will then be taken to Springfield for cremation

The Easy Way

Mobile, Ala. (UP)—Housebreakers who robbed Nat Berger of some $5,000 in jewelry and bonds found it pays to start at the bottom and work your way up. They squeezed under Berger's house, smashed their way through a concrete floor and came up under a built-in safe.

Japanese Mob In Demonstration Against Yanks

TOKYO (UP)—A mob of Communist - led Japanese, chanting "Yankee, go home," staged a noisy demonstration at the US Embassy today in protest against the expansion of the U S. air base at Tachikawa largest in Japan

An estimated 500 policemen kept the demonstrators in line although there was some scuffling and shoving. The police outnumbered the demonstrators by about two-to-one

Police guarded the embassy against possible violence during the demonstration. Security officials in the embassy itself, mindful of the recent riots in Tapei where intruders tampered with US Embassy files and secret documents, issued orders to "lock everything—just in case"

The Japanese demonstrators, who included Socialist Diet members, leftist university students and Communist Party members, were part of the mob which ripped down a barbed wire fence at Tachikawa and disrupted air operations there for six hours Monday.

Cat Population Is Small; At Least Officially

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich (UP)—The cat population of Grand Rapids officially numbers only seven

City license officer Rawson Weaver said Monday that the deadline for obtaining cat licenses has passed and only seven persons took out permits — all for tomcats.

"One reason," Weaver said, "may be the price. Tags for tomcats cost only 25 cents, while female cat licenses are rated at $1."

"No, we don't plan any mass arrests, for one thing, cats are too hard to catch. But it's evident that car owners don't have the consideration for their pets that dog lovers do," he said

Weaver noted that 19,000 dog licenses have been taken out by their owners. But he said the seven cat licenses this year is actually an improvement.

"Last year only five cat owners took out permits," he said.

Ship Aground In Cape Cod

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass. (UP) — Army engineers make another attempt today to free the 8,300-ton freighter American Packer which ran aground in the Cape Cod Canal, blocking the waterway to all heavy shipping.

The 438 - foot ship was pulled free from a shoal at the western entrance to the canal Monday night but went out of control and lurched onto another shallow a short distance away.

Coast Guard officials said the ship and its crew of 50 men were in no immediate danger. However, the canal bottleneck has forced officials to re-route all heavy shipping around the cape About 50 ships pass through the canal daily.

Fisher Plant Walkout Ended

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Normal production resumed today at the West Mifflin plant of the Fisher Body plant after a one-day walkout touched off by a dispute involving transfer of skilled workers in the tool and die department.

The afternoon and evening shifts refused to report for duty Monday, company officials said. The plant employs 1,800 production workers represented by the United Auto Workers.

Less Cotton in Production Today

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Agriculture Department today reported farmers had 1,224,000 acres of cotton in cultivation in July 1, down 15 per cent from last year.

The department is forbidden by law to make a cotton production estimate until August. But if yields averaged 400 pounds of lint to the acre, farmers would harvest 11,379,200 bale crop this year on that acreage.

Last year farmers produced 13,310,000 bales from 16,833,000 acres in cultivation July 1, 1956.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"You may as well finish my salad. It's too rich for Dad and too tart for me."

Meat Prices Will Remain 'Stable'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department predicts that meat prices will be "relatively stable" through the remainder of this year and much of 1958.

The department made the forecast Monday in its monthly publication, The Livestock and Meat Situation. It said meat output for 1957 should total about 27,300,000,000 pounds, about 3 per cent less than in 1956.

Ike's Vacation Plans Secret

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower has chosen his vacation spot and the guessing is that he has taken a cue from the popular song which says "You're sure to fall in love with old Cape Cod."

But the White House isn't telling. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, obviously enjoying his "guessing game" with reporters, just grins and tells newsmen they will have to "wait and see."

Hagerty said Monday that the President has chosen his vacation hideaway for this summer but isn't ready to reveal it yet. He said when—and if—the President gets there will depend largely on Congress.

The Senate has started a hot debate on civil rights which is expected to hold up much congressional work for some weeks. This delay could also delay the President's vacation.

While Hagerty was keeping mum, there were reports that Secret Service men had been checking security arrangements at Osterville, Mass., on Cape Cod. One report said a friend of the President has rented a home at exclusive Oyster Harbors, a nearby island accessible only by drawbridge.

Hagerty denied that Oyster Harbors would be the presidential vacation spot. But with a knowing grin, he did not rule out other areas of Cape Cod.

French Creek Waters Searched

FRANKLIN, Pa. (UP)—Firemen searched the waters of French Creek here for several hours early today for a man who was reported to have leaped into the stream from the 13th St. bridge.

But police believe the missing man had drifted downstream and climbed out.

A young woman telephoned the city police department reporting the man's leap from the bridge. Firemen from Franklin and Rocky Grove responded to the alarm. The city rescue boat was launched and the search continued under flood lights set up on both sides of the stream.

But at 3 a.m., police received reports that the "suicide" had drifted down stream and then apparently changed his mind.

Pennsylvania Farm—

Sheep Growers Get State Check List

By UNITED PRESS

The Pennsylvania annual Stud Ram Show and sale will be held at Harrisburg this Saturday.

In connection with the show, the Penn State University extension service has issued a check list for sheep growers to enable them to reappraise their livestock.

They urged farmers to check the size of their lambs and whether they would be ready for market at 150 days of age.

The extension pointed out that if sheep growers are not satisfied with the progress of their livestock, the farm show would be a good source for replenishing their stock.

Pig Crop

This year's spring pig crop was the smallest since 1941, according to a survey conducted by the federal-state government.

The crop was 12 per cent down from 1956. Sows farrowing this fall were also expected to decrease by 12 per cent.

The total number of pigs in the six month period ending May 31 was 468,000 compared with 530,000 in 1956 and the 10 year average of 545,000.

Nationally, the spring pig crop totaled 53 million head, about the same as last year.

Oratory Contest

The Future Farmers of America will hold a public speaking contest to select the outstanding farm boy orator of the Middle Atlantic States.

James Martin, a vocational agriculture student from Shillington in Berks County will represent the state in the contest Tuesday at a summer camp in upstate New York.

Martin will compete with speakers representing New York and New Jersey. The winner will go to Springfield, Mass., in September to compete with other tri-state winners for the top public speaking honors among FFA members of the 12 states comprising the Northeastern Region.

Food Council

A proposal to form a Pennsylvania plant food council will be presented Thursday to representatives of the state Department of Agriculture, Penn State University and the fertilizer industry.

The proposal will be made at the Pennsylvania Fertilizer and Lime Conference at University Park, sponsored by the university and the agriculture department.

The food council would represent the fertilizer industry and will advise farmers on the use of fertilizers and lime.

Outlook for Low Polio Year Is Considered Good

WASHINGTON (UP) — Public Health Service figures indicate that the outlook for a low polio toll this year is good.

A spokesman said there were only 1,403 polio cases reported in the first 26 weeks of this year, compared to 2,654 in the same period last year. Furthermore, the median figure for the years 1952-56 was 3,706 cases, considerably higher than the current trend.

The spokesman said the service has not made a survey to determine how many persons afflicted this year have had vaccinations.

So far, there is one trouble spot worrying the public service—Johnson City, Tenn. An expert has been sent to keep an eye on the outbreak there of some 50 cases. However, a spokesman pointed out that most of the cases were of the mild non-paralytic type and the outbreak is not considered great for a population of 29,000.

Goes to Dogs

LIVERPOOL, England (UP) — When an ambulance took Miss Mabel Lambie, 73, to a hospital here, seven other ambulances had to tag along too. They were sent by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to pick up 30 dogs. The pooches had nobody to look after them while Miss Lambie was in the hospital.

Turtle Suit

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UP) — D. C. and Marie Lackman are keeping away from turtle ponds. The Lackmans are being sued for $17,500 because they allegedly filled in a turtle pond and thus caused their neighbors' basements to be flooded. The suit charges the Lackmans "re-arranged surface waters" and caused the flooding.

Frogs Worse Than Patients

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UP) — Dr. Arthur Sokoloff, a dentist, long ago learned to steel himself against unnerving gasps, moans and screams.

It was a matter of professional necessity.

But Monday morning he heard some croaks and other sounds that were so ear-splitting they kept him—and his family—awake. The noises were not coming from his office, but from outside Sokoloff's window.

"They sounded horrible — just like people dying," Sokoloff told police.

Patrolman E. F. Pegram investigated. The "screams and gasps" that so unnerved the dentist were made by frogs kept in a gold fish bowl by one of Sokoloff's neighbors.

Although the frogs' presence constituted a violation of the city's anti-noise ordinance, Sokoloff decided not to sign a complaint.

Killer Given Reprieve

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UP)—A federal judge in a ruling delivered from the front porch of his home Monday night granted a reprieve to Leslie Irvin only five hours before the Chinese execution-style slayer of six persons was to die in the electric chair.

Irvin was convicted at Princeton, Ind., 19 months ago for the killing of W. Wesley Kerr, an Evansville filling station attendant. He also was accused of killing two women in southern Indiana and three members of a Henderson, Ky., family.

All of the victims were forced to kneel with their hands behind their backs and then they were shot in the back of the head in the style of Chinese executions.

Irvin's head, ankles and wrists had already been shaved for the electrodes which were scheduled to jolt the life from his body at 1:01 a.m. c.d.t., today, when news of the stay of execution arrived at Indiana State Penitentiary here.

Earlier, Irvin's chances to escape the electric chair appeared dim when a federal judge in South Bend, Ind., refused to grant a stay.

But attorneys for Irvin, known as the "Mad Dog" Killer, raced against time to file an appeal with the appeals court in Chicago and then to Danville, Ill., for a personal appeal to Judge Walter Lindley of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Lindley held an extraordinary session at his home and granted the 33-year-old former pipefitter a stay of execution about 3 p.m. c.d.t.

Lindley said the stay would continue in effect pending a hearing on Irvin's appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago, probably in September.

Bitter Fight Is Raging Over New Drug in Cancer Research

By DELOS SMITH

(This is the first of a series of five articles on one of the most controversial and interesting developments in medicine's search for a cure for cancer. It centers around the substance "Krebiozen" and around Dr. Andrew Conway Ivy of the University of Illinois, one of the nation's recognized cancer experts.)

NEW YORK, (UP) — According to one recognized cancer expert, a substance he has never seen caused some cancers to disappear and pulled their victims back from the brink of the grave.

As you scarcely need to be told, that is what hundreds of scientists at a cost of many millions of dollars have been looking for these many years.

But according to almost all if not all other recognized cancer experts, this substance has done and will do no such thing and is, in fact, worthless.

There you have the heart of a bitter fight which has been raging inside cancer research science for almost six years—a fight of one cancer scientist against almost all if not all his colleagues.

The fight now is being taken into the arena of the general public where there are no recognized cancer experts but only people who long for something — anything—which works against cancer and through taxes and contributions pay, gladly, most of the high costs of cancer research.

Reader Becomes Judge

Whether or not you feel up to it, as a non-expert, youre going to be asked to judge the merits of the fight and influence the outcome—if you haven't been asked already. The askers are the one embattled scientist and an organized group of earnest, convinced non-experts led by Gloria Swanson, the film star.

The scientist is Dr. Andrew Conway Ivy, professor of physiology and head of the department of clinical science, University of Illinois. The substance is called "Krebiozen."

His contentions are:

Krebiozen has been tried in hundreds of cancer patients and demonstrated to be "biologically active" against cancer.

The studies of the activity of Krebiozen in cancer patients made in 1951 and 1952 under the auspices of the American Medical Assn. and the University of Illinois (which found Krebiozen to be more or less worthless) were contaminated by bias, ignorance, and downright dishonesty. Therefore, they proved nothing.

—For the sake of humanity, Krebiozen must now be thoroughly and scientifically tested on a large scale so its beneficial effects may be proven beyond quibble or doubt.

Opponents' Contentions

The contention of his scientific opponents are:

—Krebiozen has been thoroughly and scientifically tested already, and has been found to be worthless against cancer beyond quibble or doubt. (They rely upon the two studies which Ivy challenges.)

—Ivy himself is honest and sincere but he has been 'deluded" or "duped" by persons seeking to exploit cancer patents and their relatives.

—It is unspeakably cruel to hold out a "worthless" substance whose existence even has to be in doubt, as a "magic cure" and thus deflect cancer patients from the two things which might really cure them—surgery or radiation.

Because you, the man-in-the-street, are being asked to judge between these two contending forces, this reporter is going to provide you with the facts, pro and con, in five dispatches of which this is the first. At the outset, you are warned to hold onto your hat. This controversy has generated a searing heat, and the dead cats hurled by both sides obscure scientific horizons. For example, the president of the University of Ilinois got fired—he was the most notable of Krebiozen's casualties.

Two of these dead cats will be buried decently now, at the beginning.

Suppression Charge False

One is the charge, made repeatedly from the Krebiozen side, that the medical profession, through the American Medical Assn. has conspired to suppress an effective weapon against cancer. Imagine yourself a doctor, deeply enmeshed in the agonies of the dying and their loved ones. Would you withhold the treatment —any treatment — you had even a slight reason to think might work? As one famous cancer expert told this reporter, his eyes moist with anger and his voice trembling, "the mere suggestion is obscene."

The other dead cat, which has been tossed repeatedly from the anti-Krebiozen side, is classifying Ivy among the "cancer quacks" who have and are bedeviling hapless cancer victims with hopes which cannot possibly be realized. Again imagine yourself a doctor, and you'll appreciate the grossness of the insult. It is true that the Krebiozen side has resemblances to the usual pattern of cancer quackery, that being a chemical compound of unknown composition which is said to be a magic potion, and a discoverer - promoter who frankly wants to make money with it. But Ivy's most uncompromising opponents concede that no matter how mistaken he may or not be, he is a compeltely honest physician, scientist, and man. And Ivy vouches for the integrity of Krebiozen's discoverer - promoter.

Cruise Ship Silence Ordered

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UP) — Capt. E. C. Hicks imposed silence today on the crew and passengers aboard the stranded cruise ship Reina Del Pacifico in preparation for new attempts to haul the ship off Bermuda's white coral reefs.

The 17,872-ton luxury liner ran hard aground between two coral reefs in Bermuda's north channel early Monday with 700 passengers and 300 crewmen aboard. Efforts to refloat the liner failed Monday and Monday night.

Hicks ordered his passengers and crew not to answer questions about the mishap, but the passengers leaned over the rail and told reporters there was four feet of water in the crew quarters. They appeared carefree and in holiday mood, however.

The interview was interrupted by a ship's officer who threatened to turn fire hoses on the reporters little cabin cruiser unless the newsmen moved out of hearing distance.

Neither Hicks nor the ship's agents would say whether there was any damage, but there were reports of a large hole under water on the starboard bow leaking streams of water.

New Soviet Plane Makes Appearance

LONDON (UP) — The Soviet Union's new turboprop airliner made its first appearance over Moscow Monday, flying low over the Kremlin's towers on a test flight, Radio Moscow reported today.

The broadcast said the plane, the Ukrainia, cruises at 400 miles per hour and carries 84 passengers.

It gave no further details, but Western observers said the description indicated the Ukrainia was similar to the British Bristol Brittannia turboprop airliner now in regular service.

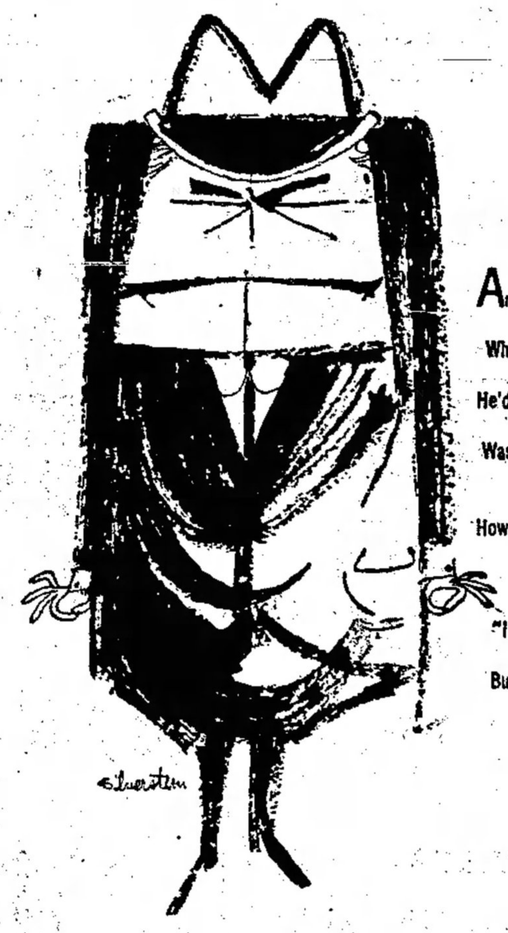
Airliner Misses Crash with Jet

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Eight passengers suffered minor injuries Monday when a United Air Lines DC6 had to make a sharp bank to avoid colliding with a jet plane.

The incident took place over Oxnard, about 50 miles northwest of Los Angeles, at an elevation of 11,000 feet. The plane had left a few moments before from Los Angeles for San Francisco with 39 passengers and crew.

A United Air Lines physician was called to San Francisco Airport to examine the passengers.

He found the most severe injuries were a sprained ankle suffered by Tom Traber of Affton, Mo., and a cut on the forehead received by David Steinberg of Yonkers, N.Y. Six other passengers received minor bruises.



An angry man is Sylvester T. Bly,
Who today was sold a piece of "blue sky."
He'd stepped in a showroom—out of the rain,
Was sold a new car before he could explain!

How he hated the styling—so high and square
And in new features it was really bare.
"I got a real bargain—the buy of my life—
But how do I ever convince my own wife?"

Moral: You're paying for a new car...make sure you get one!

When you buy a new car, put your money on tomorrow—not yesterday. Swept-Wing Dodge actually obsoletes other cars in its field. Should you invest in high, boxy styling when Dodge offers the low, low look of tomorrow? Should you invest in outmoded coil springs when Dodge offers new Torsion-Aire Ride? Should you invest in an old-fashioned lever-type transmission when Dodge offers the ease of Push-Button Driving? In other things, too—engines, brakes, interiors—Dodge is years ahead. So put your money on tomorrow. See your Dodge dealer. Join the swing to the Swept-Wing Dodge!

RR Fare Boost Suspended

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Public Utility Commission has suspended until next Jan. 16 an average 15 per cent increase in commuter fares proposed by three Pennsylvania railroads.

The commission set back the proposed rate hike sought by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Reading Co. and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad six months and ordered an investigation to determine if the boost is justified. The PUC said public hearings will be held before a decision is reached.

The increases primarily would affect commuters in the Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Harrisburg areas. The railroads told the commission the rate boosts were needed to partially offset heavy passenger losses.

The city of Philadelphia filed a petition last month protesting the increase and urged that it be suspended for an inquiry and hearings. Some 30 letters of protest also were received.

The proposed schedules generally would increase charges for unrestricted monthly tickets by $3. Other general increases would include $2.70 in the restricted monthly ticket, $2.25 in the school ticket, $1.80 in the 24-ticket, $1.50 in the 20-trip ticket and 75 cents in the weekly ticket.

The PRR estimated the increase would add $816,000 to its annual revenue to help offset a $4,700,000 commuter service deficit. Reading estimated its yearly increase at $340,000 and its loss at $6,704,000. P. & L. E. anticipated an average yearly increase of $19,900 and said it had nearly an $8,000 loss on commuter runs during a recent month long test.

More Victims Of Audrey Are Found; 480 Toll

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UP) — The bodies of six more victims of hurricane Audrey have been found, running the toll of dead and missing in the June 27 disaster to 480.

Calcasieu Parish Sheriff Henry Reid said 319 bodies have been found, and 209 of them identified. The missing total has grown to 161, he said, although some of the missing undoubtedly are among the unidentified dead.

The American Red Cross announced donations to the hurricane disaster fund have grown to $6,226.

Five towns struck by the hurricane have been sprayed with DDT for insect control. Cameron, one one of the hardest hit, has been dusted three times.

Insurance companies announced they would set up offices in Cameron shortly to begin making storm damage adjustments.

Prince Charles Out of Step At Sports Day

LONDON (UP) — A hundred schoolboys marched past their proud parents Monday and everybody was in step—except Prince Charles.

Arms swung in unison as the pupils at the exclusive boys school which Britain's future king attends put on a show of calisthenics for the wind-up of their annual sports day. But Charles, in the front rank, was way out of time.

"Watch yourself, Charlie," hissed a friend in the rear rank. The remark carried round the sports ground.

Charles blushed and got into time. The Duke of Edinburgh grinned behind his hand. Queen Elizabeth II chuckled.

Like the rest of the pupils at the school — fees $84 a term — Charles brought his mother and dad along to see the sports day Monday.

2 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Andrew Sepesky, who died five years ago today, July 9, 1952.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break but all in vain.
To have, to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never —
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together
Sadly missed by wife, Jenne Sepesky, Children and Grandchildren

Ground Broken At Westinghouse Reactor Center

WALTZ MILL, Pa. (UP) — Ground was broken for Westinghouse Electric Corporation's Nuclear Materials Reactor Center here Monday by a shovel activated by atomic particles 20 miles away.

Dr. William E. Shoup, technical director of the firm's atomic power division, "fired" the atomic particles from an atom smasher near East Pittsburgh. A Geiger counter picked up the radiation and the clicks were carried here by telephone.

The impulses received at Waltz Mill, 29 miles southeast of Pittsburgh, opened an electrical circuit controlling a magnet and the spade it held dropped to the ground to "dig" the first ground for the new facility.

The new reactor, the first of its type owned by private industry, will be used to test materials under conditions similar to those in a power reactor.

The reactor will use enriched uranium as fuel and will be cooled by ordinary water under pressure.

Westinghouse estimated the facility would be completed between Dec. 13, 1958, and July 1, 1959.

Seek Chartered Helicopter Run

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Public Utility Commission said today it will hold further hearings in Pittsburgh July 22 on the application of Pittsburgh Airways, Inc. to operate a chartered helicopter service.

The hearing will open in the state office building at 10 a. m. edt.

The company's proposal to carry passengers and property between the Pittsburgh area and other points in the state was opposed by Miller Air Lines, Inc., which now operates helicopters in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh Airways is a subsidiary of Industrial Helicopters, Inc., Pittsburgh, and operates from the Wilkinsburg Airport at Monroeville.

31st Traffic Death Recorded in County

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Theodore E. LeLoup, 37, Bridgeville, died in Westmoreland hospital Monday night of injuries suffered in a collision on Route 22 near Export June 24th.

His death was the 31st traffic fatality of the year in the county.

Sailors Jump From Cruiser To Their Deaths

MONTEREY, Calif. (UP)—Two sailors aboard the heavy cruiser USS St. Paul jumped to their deaths off the California coast Monday in an apparent attempt to desert.

The Navy refused to identify the sailors or give an explanation why they tried to jump ship at sea.

A fishing ship, "Two Brothers," found one sailor's life - jacketed body about a mile off Point Pinos Lighthouse. A Coast Guard cutter found the second body.

A Navy spokesman in Monterey said the St. Paul radioed that "accomplices" of the men reported they jumped over the side of the ship shortly after it cleared the harbor here on a voyage to San Pedro, Calif.

The report said other sailors told authorities the two men threw a powder can full of civilian clothing into the water and then dove in after the can.

Steel Prices Likely To 'Remain Stable'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Steelmakers will have to be satisfied with their recent price increase for the net full year, instead of hoping for another secondary boost in January as was obtained last year, Steel Magazine said today.

The publication predicted steel prices will "likely remain stable" at their new level for the net 12 months, instead of increasing again in the winter, because of three factors.

—"Steel users are finding it difficult to pass on or absorb increased costs."

—"Numerous segments of the public are expressing resistance to price increases."

—"Steel companies covered part of their current cost increases through upward adjustments in price extras several months ago."

Last summer's increases were followed by advances in extras, beginning last December.

The average boost in base prices last year amounted to $8.50 per ton. Etras were raised an average of $5 a ton. This year, the base price increases averaged only $6 per ton.

The industry's barometer, steelmaking scrap, started on an inverse path from last week's boosts by decreasing in price. The drop of 50 cents a ton from that of the preceding week lowered the publication's price composite on steelmaking grades to $55.33 per gross ton.

The magazine predicted that the year's low point in steel production would come in July.

Mill production rates started dropping right from the start of the month. Total outturn for ingots and castings last week amounted to some 2,009,200 net tons. This was 78.5 per cent of rated capacity—a drop of 715 points from the preceding week's rate.

Production declines were sharpened by the July 4 holiday, the beginning of summer vacations and the continuation of inventory reduction at steel consumers' plants, according to the magazine.

Steel points out that current needs for steel are particularly reduced by the "universality" of metalworking plant shutdowns for summer vacations.

Steve Allen Happy Man, His Wife Says

(William Ewald is on vacation. Today's guest writer is Jayne Meadows, who writes about her husband, Steve Allen.)

By JAYNE MEADOWS

NEW YORK (UP) — To the TV public the name Steve Allen means a tall, bespectacled comedian with a warm, gentle manner of delivering a joke or playing the piano.

But to me, his wife, Steve is more than the calm, glib TV star audiences see; to me, he's the happiest man I've ever known.

Happiness has been defined as the finding of one's vocation and the successful realization of it. Steve has fulfilled himself in a bushel basket full of vocations, relationships and hobbies. He's written five books, made three movies, starred on Broadway, written hit songs and done a stack of best-selling record albums.

But more important, he's made a number of lasting, loving friendships and I am convinced that this and all his prolific professional creativity is due to his inner gentleness and almost child-like appreciation of simple wonder of life.

Zest For Life

Steve has a tremendous zest for life. The other evening we were weaving our little motor boat among a flock of magnificent yachts anchored near our summer home when suddenly he said with a boyish grin, "Gosh, I'm glad I wasn't born rich."

That sort of remark is typical of Steve who can always pack a great deal of thought into a few words.

He is the great lover type; not in the adolescent Hollywood sort of way, but in the universal sense that he loves the world, loves people, books, food, sport, nature, everything. Although his in - command attitude on the air might hide the fact, Steve is actually extremely sentimental and sympathetic. Hardly a week goes by that he doesn't slip a check into an envelope and mail it to some unfortunate person he's read about in the paper.

Respected In Business

Beside his compassion I think Steve's two strongest characteristics are his honesty and the outspoken courage of his Irish ancestry. He is respected in the business as a man who will always play the game fairly, will never compromise on principle.

On his Sunday program, he has refused to cheat his public by resorting to questionable booking or promotion methods.

He has said: "I'll get by under my own steam or not at all."

That he is greatly talented, no one denies. And that the public approves of his methods is proved by his constantly increasing ratings and popularity. His audience loves him, his children love him, his friends love him, and I love him.

Prince Philip Films on WQED 10:15 Tonight

Films taken by Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh and husband of Queen Elizabeth, during his recent world tour will be presented over Channel 13 in a 15-minute condensed version at 10:15 p. m. tonight.

This is a rare opportunity for the Pittsburgh area audience to see Prince Philip in many informal and unconventional poses — as the bearded sailor, the jaunty lecturer, the "after-dinner" speaker, playing "tennis" amid the ice of the Antarctic, swinging between ships in a basket — always friendly, informal and relaxed — and coupled with these pictures is an entertaining and racy commentary delivered by the Prince himself, spiced with anecdotes and reminiscences about the people and places he visited.

During his tour, Prince Philip went to 20 countries and travelled some 36,000 miles — visiting Africa, Malaya, Australia, New Zealand, New Guinea, Chatham Islands, Graham Land, the Antarctic, S. Georgia Island, Tristan da Cunha, St. Helena, Gambia, and other areas. The tour was made on the royal yacht Britannia.

According to psychology tests, women are generally better than men in doing prolonged, monotonous tasks.

Your Health—

Do You Have Allergy Or Just a Fantasy?

By H. N. BUNDESEN M. D.

Your mind can do some strange things.

I have often advised those of you with asthma and certain other allergies to avoid domestic quarrels and other emotional disturbances whenever possible.

We know for a fact that this tension often triggers an allergic attack.

But we also have reason to suspect that anxiety and tension alone will produce allergic symptoms in a person who apparently has no real allergy. Numerous experiments seem to bear this out.

In certain persons, the problems and challenges met in everyday life are enough to initiate body disturbances identical to those produced by allergens. This means that actual asthmatic attacks may be brought about simply by troublesome situations, even though the person is not allergic to the usual foreign proteins which bother asthmatics.

Perhaps it is the illness of a child, loss of a job or some grave domestic difficulty. Quite often a disturbance, strong enough to produce an allergic reaction, is unconsciously associated with feelings of guilt, resentment or remorse.

Not only do such situations bring the familiar wheezing and coughing of an asthmatic, they frequently produce nasal congestion and redness as well.

Some individuals are allergic to milk; many more simply think they are.

In some instances, skin tests indicate a patient may be allergic to milk. Then, after knowingly drinking the liquid, this person reacts accordingly, with nausea and abdominal discomfort.

I recall one case in particular, that of a middle-aged woman.

During an experiment, when she was given water and advised that it was milk, she promptly showed all her previous symptoms. Yet when given milk and told it was water, she developed no symptoms at all.

And you think we doctors know all the answers!

Question and Answer

J. D.: What foods should one with hardening of the arteries avoid?

Answer: There is no one definite food which should be avoided.

However, it is believed by some authorities that restricting certain foods high in cholesterol or fat helps in preventing the progress of hardening of the arteries.
